

Probers Lift Restrictions on Questioning of TVA Workers

Clears Way for Arthur E. Morgan in Obtaining Data

FLAREUP IS ENDED

Former Chairman Asked For Added Details On 'Yardstick'

Knoxville, Tenn. —(P)—Congressional investigators of the Tennessee Valley Authority lifted restrictions today which prevented Arthur E. Morgan from questioning TVA employees except by arrangement with authority officials and committee counsel.

Representative Jenkins (R-Ohio), who moved yesterday to permit unrestricted questioning after Dr. Morgan charged officials had instructed employees "not to talk" to him without their permission, with drew his original motion and substituted the following, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, that it be the sense of this committee that all employees be given free opportunity to confer with this committee or any other persons designated by the chairman with reference to subject matter in this investigation, and that it not be necessary for such employees to make a report thereof to any TVA officers either before or after the conference."

Dr. Morgan then returned to the stand to announce he was finished for the time being with testimony he began Monday.

Further Questions

Senator Schwartz (D-Wyo.) said he would like to question the former TVA chairman further on the TVA's "power yardstick" which Dr. Morgan said was adopted without his permission or knowledge.

"I understood with committee counsel," Dr. Morgan said, "I was not to take up power matters at this time. I'd rather wait until I was better prepared to answer those questions."

Dr. Morgan said yesterday a procedure was followed whereby he could question TVA employees only in the presence of Committee Counsel Francis Biddle, Philadelphia, and by arranging interviews through TVA officials.

In the flareup which followed, Biddle threatened to resign and Representative Mead (D-N.Y.) protested the Jenkins motion on grounds that utility executives or anyone else could gain access to TVA records through indiscriminate questioning of employees.

Biddle asserted he was only following a rule laid down by the committee which provided for TVA records and files to clear through his office.

Morgan's Charge

Dr. Morgan topped off a day of sensational developments yesterday by accusing TVA officials of seeking "misrepresentative and misleading" evidence for possible use in a trial in Chattanooga last winter when 18 power companies attacked the constitutionality of TVA.

The case, decided in favor of the TVA, is pending in the supreme court on appeal.

Dr. Morgan said James Lawrence Fly, TVA general counsel, asked engineers and consultants to make reports which would "tend to show" the cost of power generation in the dam-building program was a negligible factor and that flood control and navigation predominated.

This evidence, he said, "never was submitted after I pointed out to our counsel the injury it would cause the professional standing of our engineers."

Queen Marie's Body Lies In State Until Sunday

Bucharest —(P)—The body of Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania was placed today in the royal palace to lie in state until the funeral Sunday.

It was brought to Bucharest by train from Sinaia, royal summer residence where the queen died Monday in her sixty-third year after a long illness.

In Bucharest, the queen's favorite possessions were exhibited near her coffin. Among them were her portrait by Philip de Lazlo, some old Russian lace and holy pictures.

SEES HEALTH PLAN

Washington —(P)—Miss Josephine Roche (above), chairman of the president's committee on medical care, said today the 1939 congress would be asked to authorize a broad national health program. She declined to discuss its scope, but indicated it would be patterned after the $850,000,000 a year plan submitted to the National Health conference earlier this week.

The big question was the probable attitude of the American Medical Association toward such legislation. Officials of the society criticized the committee's program as not answering the problem of obtaining adequate medical care for all.

Treasury Studies Proposal to Cut Down Exemptions

LaFollette's Plan Is Receiving Consideration at Washington

Washington —(P)—Roswell Magill, acting secretary of the treasury, announced today the administration was studying feasibility of lowering personal income tax exemptions.

He declined to say whether he or other officials favored a reduction, but said the subject "certainly" was being studied in preparing broad tax revision proposals to be submitted to the next congress.

In recent years congress has repeatedly defeated efforts by Senator LaFollette (R-Wis.) to cut the exemption for single persons from $1,000 to $800 and for heads of families from $2,500 to $2,000.

As announced previously by President Roosevelt, the treasury also is studying suggestions for changes in the undistributed profits tax and the capital gains tax.

Magill added that the treasury was looking into methods of carrying out Mr. Roosevelt's recommendation for taxing salaries of federal, state and local government employees and bond interest on future issues of federal, state and local securities.

As part of the study, the justice department has issued an opinion saying the legislation, if confined to future salaries and bond interest, probably would be held constitutional by the supreme court.

The acting secretary said among scores of technical tax matters under study was proposed revision of the method in valuing business inventories in connection with calculating corporation profits. He said the copper, brass and hides manufacturers wanted a change.

Magill declined to say whether the new tax proposals would be designed to increase as well as adjust the treasury's tax revenues, remarking Secretary Morgenthau and President Roosevelt had agreed to defer policy decisions until both returned to Washington.

Newton Peaceful As Troops Watch

Immediate Relief Aid Expected by Some of Maytag Employees

Newton, Iowa —(P)—Strike-torn Newton remained peaceful under martial law today, as some of 1,400 Maytag factory employees idle since May 9 anticipated immediate relief aid from Jasper county.

When the starting bell clanged in the empty plant this morning, only a few maintenance men passed through the national guard sentry lines into the building. The usual force of 100 office workers was admitted, but production units of the plant remained closed.

Union men and onlookers were conspicuously absent in the area surrounding the plant. Union men who were in the area early yesterday apparently used the morning hours to catch up on their sleep.

Sentries remained on duty all night and no disturbances were reported.

As commander-in-chief of the Iowa National Guard, Governor Nelson G. Kraschel late yesterday ordered ranking officers of his staff to administer relief to "qualified relief clients" in Newton on the same basis relief is administered in other sections of the state.

Britain Told Reich Hoping For Harmony

Wants 'Peaceful Settlement of Outstanding Questions'

MAY REOPEN TALKS

War Debt to America Not Dead Issue, Liberal Leader Says

London —(P)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons today Britain had received from Chancellor Hitler's confidential envoy renewed assurances of the German government "of their desire to achieve a peaceful settlement of outstanding questions."

The prime minister said these assurances had been given to Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, by Captain Fritz Weidemann, the German fuhrer's representative.

The German visitor saw the foreign secretary at his home the evening before Lord Halifax left for Paris, accompanying King George and Queen Elizabeth on their visit of state.

This lent added importance to the talk, which is understood to have figured vitally in Lord Halifax's conversations with Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Bonnet in Paris.

The prime minister's statement was interpreted here as an indication Weidemann's visit might lead to reopening of negotiations for a broad Anglo-German political settlement.

Broken Off in March

Such negotiations were broken off almost before they were begun last March when Germany suddenly annexed Austria.

Since the Austrian crisis, Britain has been waiting for Germany to initiate further talks looking toward a general European appeasement, the avowed goal of Chamberlain's foreign policy.

Weidemann's visit is regarded here as providing the German initiative necessary for resumption of negotiations.

One of the most difficult questions involved is that of Czechoslovakia's German minority, over which Hitler has declared himself "protector." Informers here believed this was one of the subjects of the Halifax-Weidemann talk.

Discusses War Debt

At the same time the question of Britain's war debt to the United States was raised in the house of lords by Viscount Samuel, leader of the liberal opposition, who declared:

"While it is of great importance to remove causes of friction between ourselves and possible enemies, it is important—possibly more important—to remove causes of friction between ourselves and those who are potential friends."

Lord Samuel said this was not a propitious moment to propose immediate action involving additional burdens on Britain's budget, already bearing a huge load for armaments.

He mentioned the subject of the debt, he said, "to prevent the idea arising that this country and the United States that this question is a closed chapter of history."

"Not every one on this side of the Atlantic regards this as a finished question to be dismissed from our minds."

Armstrong Won't Offer Apology

Weirton Steel Counsel Refuses to Bring Incident to Close

Washington —(P)—Clyde A. Armstrong, general counsel for the Weirton Steel company, who asked the labor relations board to set aside his ouster from a hearing, has refused to end the incident by apologizing to the trial examiner.

Armstrong recently was barred from the board's hearing at Steubenville, Ohio, by Examiner Edward G. Smith. The men clashed in a heated session during the eleven-month testimony on charges of unfair practices against the steel firm.

Chairman Madden of the labor relations board, presiding at an appeal session yesterday, offered Armstrong an opportunity to end the matter—first of its kind to confront the board—by an apology to Smith.

Armstrong, in angry silence after a number of repeated clashes, declined through his attorney, Earl F. Reed of Pittsburgh.

Madden upheld Smith's conduct, asserting "either the board's examiner must control the hearing or there is no control."

Shortly before the apology offer, Madden asked Armstrong what he meant in refusing to obey an order of the examiner and in inviting Smith to "take any action you care to."

Armstrong began a detailed explanation, reading from the hearing record which already covers 31,000 pages, when Madden broke in to praise the action of Examiner Smith.

"Then I think there is no use for me to comment further," Armstrong said abruptly. "I think you have prejudged this appeal."

He declined to answer other questions of the chairman.

19 Escape When 3-Story Brick Building Falls

Baltimore —(P)—A three-story brick building being remodeled collapsed here today, 19 workmen barely escaping from the cellar before the crash.

One workman, Dick Brady, whose shouted warning saved his fellows, himself was unable to escape and was buried up to his neck in brick and mortar.

Freed by a frantic half hour's digging, Brady was believed not critically hurt.

Triple Job of City Engineer Is Separated

Hire Man as Assistant Street Commissioner Under Wickesberg

MAYOR BREAKS TIE

Council Re-Creates Position of Building Inspector in Appleton

The city engineer's triple job was split wide open at last night's council meeting when aldermen adopted an ordinance re-creating the position of building inspector and hired Eugene F. Harris, 518 W. Spring street, as assistant street commissioner.

Mayor Goodland decided the securities when aldermen, after stiff opposition, voted 6 and 2 to throw the decision into the mayor's lap. The mayor voted to hire Harris thereby relieving the engineer of direct responsibility in the street department. Councilmen who voted to hire Harris were Aldermen DeLand, Grinnon, Keller, Knuijt, Kubitz and Thompson. Voting against the new job were Aldermen Brautigan, Franke, Harriman, McGillan, Stachauer and Vanderheyden.

Alderman Vanderheyden voted against re-creating the building inspector job for which a salary of $1,000 per year was set plus $200 per year for car expenses. On the salary ordinance, Alderman Vanderheyden, Thompson and McGillan voted no. Harris' salary was set at $155 per month.

An informal council meeting was called for next Wednesday evening when applicants for the inspector's position will be interviewed. A committee of Appleton builders also will be interviewed at that time.

Came As Surprise

The change in the administration of the street department, a recommendation of the street and bridge committee, came as a surprise to opposition aldermen, they maintained, although everyone else around city hall knew the change was being contemplated.

Splitting the engineer's job was a campaign issue last spring. Mayor Goodland declared in his address to the council in April that one of his objectives this year would be to split the job to secure more efficiency in those departments.

When the committee's recommendation dropped like a bombshell on receptive council ears, a storm of protest greeted the proposal from

Sheriff Attaches Dinneen Furniture, Household Goods

Madison —(P)—Sheriff Lawrence Larson of Dane county said today he has attached furniture of William M. Dinneen, former secretary of the public service commission.

The action was taken to satisfy an execution of judgment by the state tax commission for collection of an $18,532 assessment for alleged unreported income.

Dinneen signed a receipt as custodian of the property, Larson said. Dinneen's household goods, including furniture, silverware, cooking utensils and other personal property, will be sold at a public auction, if the attachment is followed up in legal order.

The former public service commission secretary said yesterday the furniture was in his wife's name. If it is finally determined that Dinneen holds the title, Larson said, the goods can be sold in 20 days.

The Dane county circuit court clerk issued the execution yesterday.

Lee Tracy and Bride to Leave Tonight for London

Hollywood —(P)—Lee Tracy, chatelaine actor, and his bride, the former Helen Thomas Wyse, will depart tonight for a honeymoon in London. They were married at Yuma, Ariz., yesterday. The actor described himself as William Lee Tracy, age 40. The bride said she was 26. It was her second marriage, Tracy's first.

New French War Machines Pass In Review Before British King During His Visit to Versailles

Paris —(P)—France paraded her newest war machine for the first time today to demonstrate to King George VI of Britain the strength she can lend to their common cause.

For more than an hour, infantry, cavalry and artillery regiments—the flower of the French army—swung by the red-carpeted reviewing stand at Versailles to the music of massed military bands.

King George, in the tunic of a field marshal, and President Albert Lebrun of France reviewed the colorful columns of 50,000 marching men, supported by hundreds of tanks and about 50 airplanes.

The spectacle, a highlight of King George's state visit to France, attested to the strong bonds that unite Europe's great democratic powers.

When King George reached Versailles a 101-gun salute was started. It continued throughout the parade, one salvo each minute.

The king and President Lebrun were taken from the station to the reviewing stand in a bullet-proof automobile flanked by a mounted guard of colorful spahis.

Queen Elizabeth and Mme. Lebrun arrived later by special train and were accompanied by mounted spahis to the Versailles chateau to attend a sumptuous luncheon in the hall of mirrors where the Versailles treaty ending the World War was signed.

Vast throngs lining the route of the parade saw implements of war the French army never before had shown publicly.

They watched columns of trucks swiftly pulling 6-inch guns on pneumatic rubber tires and mechanized 3-inch anti-aircraft guns with trucks for ammunition.

Fifty infantry trucks, each mounting two machine-guns and carrying 10 soldiers armed with repeating guns, paraded past, together with tanks ranging from tiny wheeled tanks to rolling fortresses.

Camouflaged "land battleships" tanks weighing as much as 12 tons, had 3-inch guns protruding from their snouts.

British Seaplane Reaches New York After Ocean Hop

Says CIO Chief Hopes to Avoid Part in Dispute

Detroit States Lewis Won't Interfere Unless Collapse Threatens

Washington —(P)—Frank Reid of Detroit, spokesman for a group of auto worker union leaders, said today Chairman John L. Lewis of the CIO had assured them he would not intervene in the union's factional squabble unless the union's collapse was threatened.

Reid was one of a committee of 50 which conferred with Lewis yesterday. Shown Reid's statement, Lewis remarked no one had authority to quote his views except himself.

The Reid committee is supporting the administration of Homer Martin, the union's international president, and storm center of the controversy over U. A. W. leadership.

Lewis' only commitment has been that he has taken under consideration the plea for intervention delivered a week ago by a group of self-termed "middle grounders" from 13 locals in Michigan and Ohio.

Suspension of five high international officers by Homer Martin, U. A. W. president, brought into public view the discord in the union leadership. Secretary-treasurer George Addes was ousted after an executive board trial. The other four face board trial in Detroit July 25.

Informed persons said the plea of the Reid delegation for non-intervention reflected Martin's attitude.

SEEKS OFFICE

Milwaukee —(P)—James E. Finnegan (above), former attorney general, announced today he would seek that office again this fall on the Democratic ticket. Finnegan was elected attorney general in 1932 and again in 1934. Two years ago Finnegan was defeated when the entire Progressive ticket was swept into office.

Finnegan is a graduate of Marquette university law school, and prior to and following his terms as attorney general has maintained law offices in Milwaukee.

2 Sons to Share Bulk of Horlick Estate at Racine

Widow of Malted Milk Manufacturer Leaves More Than $4,000,000

Racine —(P)—The two sons of Mrs. Arabella Horlick, widow of the malted milk fortune founder will share the bulk of her estate, estimated at between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.

Mrs. Horlick's will, filed for probate today, leaves $200,000 to the estate of her daughter, Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, who died two weeks ago.

The original will provide that after the $200,000 bequest to Mrs. Sidley or her estate, the residue should be divided equally between Mrs. Sidley and her brothers, William Horlick, Jr., and A. J. Horlick, both of Racine.

Codicil Added

A codicil, drawn the same day as the will—April 7, 1937—made provision that in the event of the death of any legatee, the estate's residue should be shared by those surviving.

Mrs. Horlick died July 9, three days after Mrs. Sidley died in Toronto, Ont.

Mrs. Horlick's estate was estimated at $1,750,000. However, her husband's will, now in the process of probate, directed that of his holding, the palatial Horlick home, valued at $1,000,000, and $2,000,000 in cash go to his widow.

The will of Mrs. Sidley bequeathed one-third of her estate to W. Perkins Bull, Toronto lawyer; one-third to her son, William Horlick Sidley; and the balance to St. John's Military academy after payment of numerous specific bequests.

Mrs. Horlick's will made no mention of young Sidley.

Roosevelt Ship At French Island

President Arrives With Party at Clipperton on Vacation Cruise

Aboard U.S.S. Houston, Enroute to Panama —(P)—President Roosevelt and his party aboard the Houston arrived at French-owned Clipperton island at 11:39 a. m. (C.S.T.) today on their vacation and fishing cruise.

The island, lying 670 miles off the Mexican mainland on a line between Hawaii and Panama, consists of a low coral ring of sandlike appearance, varying in width from a few yards to a quarter of a mile and rising from the sea to a height of 5 to 11 feet.

Within this coral ring is a large circular lagoon with depths from a few inches to more than 300 feet. The island is fringed by a continuous coral reef and coral rocks. At the southeast end a huge rock, like a ship under full sail, rises 70 feet. Ships are warned that the island is dangerous to navigation, even under most favorable conditions.

For one thing, exact location of the island is not known definitely. It has been reported to lie five miles north of its present charted position.

Captain Guy N. Barker of the Houston plans to make observations for a report to the navy's hydrographic office so officials there can exactly chart the island for the first time.

Insurgents in Broad New General Offensive

Madrid, France, at the Spanish Front —(P)—Insurgents unleashed a general offensive in eastern, central and southern Spain today against government lines weakened by Generalissimo Francisco Franco's steady drive toward Valencia.

The scream of shells over long-besieged Madrid signalled renewal of large-scale warfare in all sections of Spain.

Government reports said insurgent batteries poured 300 shells on the capital's battered buildings in a few hours.

First Trans-Atlantic Flight for Craft Of Its Type

OTHERS PLANNED

Ends Trip of 3,042 Miles From Ireland This Afternoon

Port Washington, N. Y. —(P)—The 10-ton British "popose plane" Mercury, completing a flight of 3,042 miles from Ireland, arrived at the trans-Atlantic air Terminal at 2:08 p. m. (C. S. T.) today.

The actual flying time for the trip across the Atlantic was 22 hours 28 minutes. A stop of 2 hours, 40 minutes was made at Montreal, making the total time 25 hours and 8 minutes.

The Mercury was launched from her mother ship, the flying boat Maia, at Foynes, Ireland, yesterday, high above the seacoast.

Montreal (Canadian Press)—The British pick-a-back seaplane Mercury took off at noon (C.S.T.) today for New York from Boucherville air harbor, where she arrived this morning on the first trans-Atlantic flight for a plane of her type.

The plane had alighted on the St. Lawrence river at Boucherville, 12 miles east of Montreal, at 9:20 a. m. (C.S.T.), 20 hours 20 minutes after leaving Foynes, Ireland, where she was launched in midair from the back of her mother ship, the flying boat Maia.

The Mercury, four-engined seaplane operated by Imperial Airways, began the 327-mile hop to New York with no such help, rising gracefully from the river.

In her nonstop flight from Foynes to Boucherville, the Mercury covered 2,715 miles and came in with 80 gallons of gasoline still in her tanks, enough for another 250 miles. After a 2 hour 40 minute stop to refuel, she was off again for New York.

Some 2,000 miles of her route had traversed the north Atlantic and she came on to Montreal without making an expected stop at Botwood, Newfoundland.

Completing the first of eight scheduled experimental flights to Canada this year, the silvery seaplane cut her engines and coasted into an area of the harbor marked off by buoys.

Yacht Meets Plane

A flag-decked yacht steamed out into the river to greet Captain Donald Bennett and Wireless Operator Albert Coster, the Mercury's crew of two.

The Atlantic crossing was accomplished at 12:29 a. m. (C.S.T.) when the Mercury, 13 hours 29 minutes out of Foynes, passed over Cape Bauld, at the northern tip of Newfoundland, and headed inland.

The Mercury was launched from the back of the Maia at Foynes at 1 o'clock p. m. (C.S.T.) yesterday on a flight to precede regular trans-Atlantic service to New York, to be started in 1939.

The flight was uneventful. Throughout the trip the Mercury was in touch with her base at Foynes or with St. Hubert airport, 12 miles south of here.

Flies At 7,000 Feet

An average speed of 145 miles an hour was maintained, and for the most part the ship flew around 7,000 feet. She came down to 3,000 feet, however, upon reaching the Canadian shores.

Through the night Skipper Donald Bennett reported at regular intervals.

Lupe Velez Again Sues Weismuller for Divorce

Los Angeles —(P)—The third divorce suit of Lupe Velez, Mexican actress, against Johnny Weissmuller, movie Tarzan and former swimming champion, was on file today. She charged mental cruelty.

Two previous suits, filed in 1934 and 1935, were dropped. Lupe said in her complaint that Johnny was sullen and morose, snubbed her friends and was unreasonably jealous.

Singer 'Swings It' And Starts Train at New York Station

New York —(P)—Evel Merman, Broadway torch singer, "swung it" on the steps of the 20th Century limited today and almost swung the train right out of Grand Central station.

An enterprising photographer headed her a signal lantern as she stepped off the train from Hollywood.

"Swing it," he directed. Miss Merman did—the lantern, and also the strains of "She Started a Riot Wave."

The engineer on the switching locomotive, waiting for the signal to pull the train to the yards, caught the swinging and singing and opened the throttle.

The train started up with a lurch. The trainman who swung it, too, but he swung a "stop" instead of a "go" signal and there was no song in his doctrine of force and aggression.

Governor Earle of Keystone State Is Grounded 2 Weeks

Harrisburg, Pa. —(P)—Governor H. Earle, grounded for two weeks by disobeying his flying instructor by making a flight that ended in a crash, said thoughtfully today "I have learned a valuable lesson—just like any schoolboy does."

Colonel Camille Vane, young chief of the state aeronautics bureau, temporarily suspended the 47-year-old governor's flying privileges last night with an admonition to Earle to "use better judgment next time."

The governor, confident with 110 hours in the air and a student pilot's license, started out yesterday on a practice flight from Harrisburg airport under Vane's instructions to "circle the field." He disappeared. Some time later, lost in a storm, the flying governor grounded the ship on the campus of a woman's college near Philadelphia. Earle was shaken up and the plane—bought recently by the state—was damaged.

Secretary Hull Praises Bolivia-Paraguay Treaty

Washington —(P)—Secretary Hull welcomed today as an assurance of more permanent peace in Latin America the approval of a treaty by Bolivia and Paraguay, ending the three-year Chaco jungle war.

Hull characterized the settlement as "an outstanding triumph for the spirit of peace and the principles of order based on law over the doctrine of force and aggression."

Public Relations Firm Employed by 6 Steel Concerns

Senate Probers Told of Study of 'CIO. Methods' And Support by Reds

Washington—(AP)—Senate investigators heard today that six steel companies engaged a public relations firm last July to make a study of industrial relations, including the "CIO, its leadership, its methods, its philosophy and the nature of its support by communists."

John W. Hill and Knowlton, told the senate civil liberties committee that each of the companies agreed to pay $1,500 a month for the service. He named the Republic, Bethlehem, Inland and National Steel corporations, the Youngstown Sheet and Tube and American Rolling Mill companies.

Hill said the companies were concerned about their industrial relations as a result of the "Little Steel" strike of last summer, and sought facts that would be useful in shaping policy.

Hill testified "arrangements" with the American Rolling Mill and Youngstown Sheet and Tube companies was terminated this spring. The six firms have paid his company about $75,000, he said, payments dropping off this spring to a total of about $2,000 a month.

Study Labor Movement
The witness said that although he contracted with the companies individually, he "assumed" each knew the other firms were helping finance the study.

Included in the survey, the witness said, were studies of characteristics of the labor movement in America. The survey touched on various hearings of the national labor board, he said, "in an effort to discover the policies and purposes of the board."

Don S. Knowlton, Hill's associate, testified Republic officials feared their homes might be bombed during a strike at Canton, Ohio, in 1935. For this reason, Knowlton said, they decided a public statement defending company tactics during the strike should be issued over his name instead of theirs. Knowlton's home was in Cleveland.

Blamed "Small Group"
The Canton Repository published the statement May 28, 1935. It contained an assertion the strike was fostered by "a small group" which wanted to dictate to the company and workers alike.

The strike was at Republic's Berger Manufacturing company. Knowlton said, in reply to a question, he thought clashes of company guards with pickets in the streets outside the plant were "not consistent" with the company's publicized policy of attempting to keep the peace.

Pursuing another line of questioning, Chairman LaFollette (P-Wis.) of the committee queried both Knowlton and Hill on payments by the National Association of Manufacturers through the firm of Hill and Knowlton, to George Sokolsky, New York newspaper columnist and lecturer.

Paid $1,000 Monthly
Hill testified he had made arrangements by which his firm was paid $1,000 a month from June to December, 1936, for publicity services for the Manufacturers' association. In turn, Hill said, his firm paid Sokolsky $1,000 for performing these services.

LaFollette introduced into the record a statement showing Sokolsky received a total of $28,599 from June, 1936, to February, 1938, from the Manufacturers' association through Hill and Knowlton.

Hill testified the firm received $248,654 from August, 1933, to December, 1937, from the Republic Steel corporation, the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, and the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Knowlton said the firm participated in preparing publicity releases, radio speeches and other items for the Greater Akron association to combat the series of sit-down strikes and "other tactics employed by the CIO" in Akron.

Million Women are Working Under State Minimum Pay Laws

Washington—(AP)—An estimated 1,000,000 women are working under state minimum wage orders which gives them pay ranging from $6 to $13 a week.

Officials of the women's bureau of the department of labor said today states with minimum wage legislation were expanding their coverage, particularly in fields not covered by the federal wage-hour act.

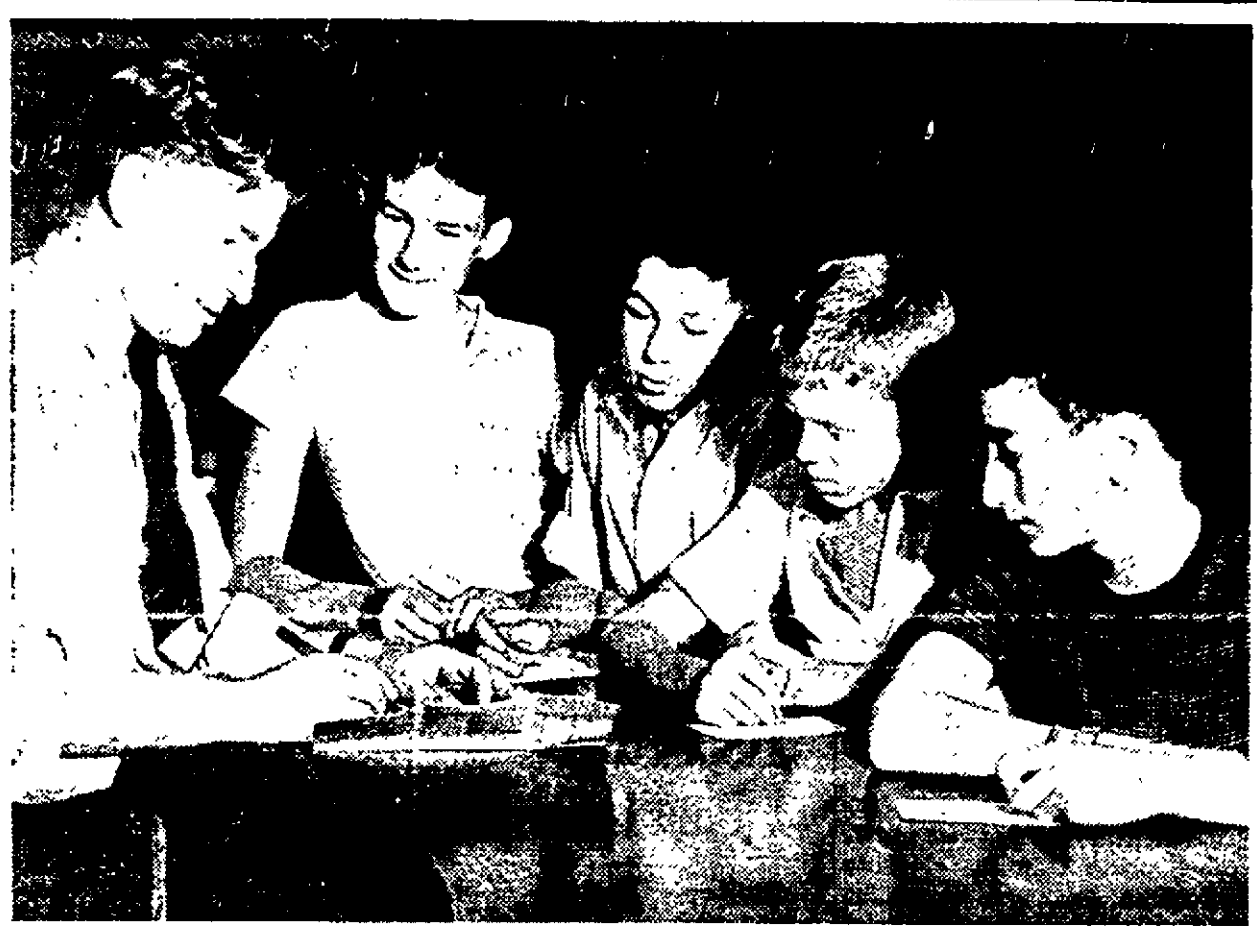

Twenty-five states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia have minimum wage laws. Most of them apply to women and minors, three to only females, and one, an Oklahoma statute now in the courts, includes men.

All but a few provide for determination of minimum wages by boards when made each industry. Flat rates were established by law in Puerto Rico, South Dakota and Nevada. Puerto Rico's minimum is $6 a week Nevada, requiring $10 for a 40-hour week for women. The state's lowest blanket minimum.

Eleven states have minimum wage rates only for young women and older women. In 12 states they are included domestic workers in its minimum wage law. It requires they be paid $6 a week and board.

Adopt Debate Question For State High Schools

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—The Wisconsin high school debate question for 1939 will be: "Resolved, that the United States should establish an alliance with Great Britain." It was announced today.

BOYS SIGN UP FOR TWO WEEKS AT CAMP ONAWAY
Thoughts of pleasant outdoor life at Camp Onaway are circulating through the minds of the four youths who are registering with C. C. Bailey, camp director, for the summer session which starts July 28 and ends Aug. 11.

Investigation to Show Activity of Communists, Nazis

Lawrence Calls Step by House of Representatives Constructive One

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—It has become quite the fashion among the so-called "liberals" to scoff at the idea that Fascism or Communism is making any headway in the United States and to belittle all who may seriously be concerned with measures to nip Communism or Fascism in the bud.

The house of representatives, however, in these precincts some evidence that the Communists have a few supporters in the inner circle of the administration itself, because these same influences have tried indirectly to hamper the committee's efforts and to keep it from gathering evidence. In due time, such efforts will be exposed, no doubt, by the committee itself, but it may be taken for granted that President Roosevelt, who has upon occasion denounced both Fascism and Communism will not hesitate to throw open to inquiry any operations of the government which may directly or indirectly be accused of Communist or Fascist influence.

Labor Leadership
From many standpoints, the inquiry may prove beneficial to the legitimate labor leadership of the country, which has been threatened by Communist agitators from within. Again and again, the federal government here has become aware of both Fascist and Communist activities, and no doubt the files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the department of justice contain many interesting reports on the work of these agitators. The recent revelations about a Nazi spy ring in the United States unquestionably will be related in due time to the Nazi organizations which are engaged in fomenting religious and racial hatred within this country.

The house committee is, of course, non-partisan and a political Representative Martin Dies of Texas, Democrat, and the seven other members are interested only in settling once and for all the question of how far Communist and Fascist activity has gone within the borders of the United States. Said Chairman Dies in a recent address:

"While the Communists and the Nazis are bitter enemies, they have much in common. They both represent dictatorialisms and the establishment of a totalitarian system of government where the individual becomes a mere pawn in the hands of the governing class. Their principles and practices are diametrically opposed to the American sense of government. In America, we believe, as stated by our forefathers in the declaration of independence, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. It is this declaration that the rights of men come from God and not from governments nor societies that antagonizes the American concept of government."

No Reconciliation
"Since we believe in America that these fundamental rights are derived from almighty God, we deny to the government or to any majority the power to deprive us of these rights. In America the government is the servant of the people. In Russia and Germany the people are the servants of the gov-

Arrest of Spy Suspects Leads War Department to Safeguard Army Secrets

Washington—(AP)—War department officials disclosed today that the recent arrest of spy ring suspects in New York had been followed by a tightening of the lid on army secrets.

An official circular added "safeguarding of military information" to a standing list of nine basic functions of the army's military intelligence division.

This division, officially designated as "G-2," has charge of preparing and keeping codes, ciphers and maps, and collecting information through attaches abroad.

Changes have been made in regulations requiring candidates for reserve commissions in the military intelligence to pass examinations in safeguarding secret information.

The navy previously had put into effect extraordinary precautions to prevent leaks.

Publication of detailed information on the progress of warship construction has limited early this year. New legislation has given both services authority to regulate or prohibit picture-taking in the vicinity of military posts or warships.

Navy photographers recently took official pictures of every officer and man at the Newport, R. I., torpedo station. Though officials asserted the procedure was nothing unusual, military circles believed it was without a precedent.

Looking to the future, well-informed persons said President Roosevelt's recent observation that both the army and navy should have more funds to combat spies may bring about a military intelligence "career corps" to work more closely with the justice department.

At present G-men undertake any tracking of spy suspects which the army and navy direct. Some navy officers have navigated the justice department's training school, but only to study fingerprint methods.

Ickes Answers Rosendahl In Dispute Over Helium

Washington—(AP)—Secretary Ickes said today Commander Charles E. Rosendahl had changed his mind about the military importance of helium after being "wined and dined" in Germany.

Rosendahl, in charge of the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., said on his return to the United States that helium had no military value. He had been Frederickshafen's guest of honor at the 100th anniversary of the birth of Count Zeppelin, designer of lighter-than-air craft.

Told reporters that Rosendahl, in his book "What About the Airship?" recounted the experience of dirigibles in the World War and added "small wonder then, at the high regard in which helium is held as a valuable military asset."

General Relief Cases Reported in Decline
Washington—(AP)—Reports to the social security board today covering 99 urban areas in 35 states showed an aggregate decrease of 1 per cent in the number of cases receiving general relief and a drop of less than 1 per cent in the funds obligated from May to June.

In 45 of the 99 areas decreases in cases were noted. In 12 the drop was 10 per cent or more and in four it was more than 20 per cent. However, in 10 cities increases of 10 per cent or more were listed.

General relief included all state and local relief in cash and kind extended to the needy, except assistance under the social security act, other assistance of these special types and paid to veterans under state and local statutes.

Be A Safe Driver
Alcohol and drugs are not a new thing in American history, but it has been most effectively combated in the past only by the white light of official publicity. Americans who have been innocently duped into supporting organizations or societies which they believed were worthy become enlightened when the sinister purposes and subtle strategy that lie behind some of these activities are exposed to view. If the alien organizations, which are so closely knit with foreign governments prove to be relatively inconsequential, even this fact will be of value and help to chase away so-called bugaboos. But the evidence already reported to have been accumulated indicates that the situation is by no means to be scoffed at, and that the congressional inquiry which is to begin within a fortnight will be most helpful in keeping Europe's quarrels from being dragged into American economic, political and social life.

Dairy Leaders of 3 States Seek to Increase Sales

Cooperative Promotion Drive Planned to Expand Butter Consumption

Madison—(AP)—A three-state drive to expand butter sales through cooperative promotion was started by 59 leading figures in the dairy industry here late yesterday. The interstate program will be promoted by Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

A committee of nine, including three from each state, will devise a plan for pooling of resources to boost sales of butter and other dairy products on a nation-wide scale.

Chairman of the committee is Dan Carlson, Wilmar, Minn.; vice chairman, Fred Larrabee, Ft. Dodge, Iowa, and secretary, Wilbur G. Carlson, Madison.

Other committee members are: Ralph E. Ammon, Madison, acting director of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and Markets; Milo T. Swan, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture; John Brandt, Minneapolis, president of the Land o' Lakes Creamery corporation; Oscar Swenson, Nicollet, Minn., secretary of the Minnesota Creamery association; Paul Crowley, Des Moines, Iowa; secretary of the Iowa Creamery Butter Manufacturers' association; and Julius Brunner, Osage, Iowa, president of the Iowa Association of Local Creameries.

Minneapolis Meeting
A meeting will be held at Minneapolis July 29 to draw up a tentative program for consideration of the state committee. E. K. Slater, Milwaukee, heads the Wisconsin group. It will meet here Aug. 2 to hear a report on the Minneapolis meeting. Once the program gets underway, other states will be invited to join.

The committee will decide whether the program should be purely educational, as in Minnesota, or to engage in direct advertising.

Advocating a vigorous stand be taken in any advertising campaign, Ammon said:

"I don't believe we should recognize in our advertising that there is any substitute for butter. Our program should be a positive one taking the aggressive."

Present at the meeting were 35 Wisconsin dairymen and members of the state board of agriculture and markets; 10 from Minnesota and 14 from Iowa.

INCLUDED IN PROGRAM

Washington—(AP)—M. L. Wilson, acting secretary of agriculture, today ordered inclusion of Burnett, Monroe and Waushara counties, Wisconsin, in a program designed to reduce tenancy by providing loans to tenants to purchase farms.

Corrigan Books Passage For Return Trip to U.S.

Dublin—(AP)—The "pride of the Corrigans," as the Irish call the young American flying hero, booked passage home today on the American liner Manhattan, sailing next week.

That done, Douglas Corrigan went shopping as any tourist. For his uncle he bought a shillelagh (typical of the family) and for the rest of the family, postcards.

Then he saw his beloved plane dismantled at the Baldonnel airport to be sent home aboard the United States Maritime commission's steamship Lehigh.

He planned a two-day visit to London before sailing from Cobh July 30.

"I am still battling with the task of answering hundreds of cablegrams people keep sending me," the aviator said.

"I am still holding off on offers of contracts from Hollywood until I get home, but it's nix on night club appearances. I'm no crooner."

Asked about the possibility of a flight across the United States for the Golden Gate exposition, he said, "my uncle must have fixed that up—it depends on United States authorities whether they release my plane. I am very doubtful if they will."

Corrigan is worried about what the home folk may do to him. He has been getting along nicely in Ireland, chatting informally with the highest of the land, but the thought of a big welcome in America is something else again.

"I certainly hope they have stopped being Corrigan-mad when I get back to America," is how he puts it. "A hero by mistake"—that "compass error" that took him to Ireland instead of California, you know—Corrigan apparently is willing to call off the rest of the show.

Today he turned down a five-year film contract with a guarantee of the pictures yearly—although yesterday he thought he might be interested in the movies—and refused a $20,000 vaudeville contract.

Officials, Employees Speculate on Winner Of Softball Battle

That baseball game, which in Appleton is of far more importance than the world series, will take place again this year for the street department picnic date has been set for June 30 at Stroebe's Island.

The game, as everyone knows, will be between city officials and street department employees and will be a part of the program being arranged by members of the committee composed of Frank Bachman, Ted Albrecht and Lawrence Reinke.

Who will win this year is a question for speculation for if you talk to officials, they tell you they will win while if you talk to employees of the street department, they say it is a cinch for them.

A reliable source reports that the officials are contemplating naming a few deputy clerks to spike their line-up to give them a better chance with the department huskies.

Line-ups for both teams will be announced next week, Bachman said today.

O'Connell Leads By 6,293 Votes

In Montana's Democratic Primary

Helena, Mont.—(AP)—Representative Jerry J. O'Connell, victor in the First district race for the Democratic congressional nomination, held a lead of 6,293 votes today over his nearest opponent in final unofficial figures.

The staunch New Dealers and self-styled emissary of President Roosevelt to "defeat Senator Wheeler's machine" in Montana, rolled up 25,296 votes in the 413 First district precincts. Payne Templeton, Helena, O'Connell's nearest opponent, had 18,003.

With 718 of 800 precincts in the Second district reported, James F. O'Connor, Democratic incumbent, Livingston, led H. D. Rolph, Joplin, 36,560 to 15,031.

In the race for Republican nomination, First district, returns from 386 of 413 precincts gave Dr. J. Thorkelson, Butte, 5,717; Winfield Page, Missoula, 4,797; J. B. Garrison, Reich, 3,776.

W. C. Hubbard, Harlowtown, led in the Second district contest for Republican nomination with 710 precincts of 800 reporting. His total was 11,375. T. S. Stockdale, Billings, had 9,849, and H. O. Willard, Lewistown, 4,417.

Miss Marie Dohr, 617 S. State street, submitted to an operation for appendicitis at St. Elizabeth hospital Tuesday. Miss Dohr is assistant to the alumni secretary at Lawrence college.

Cars Collide as Drivers

Seek Same Parking Stall

Two motorists, each seeking the same parking stall, were involved in a collision about 11 o'clock Tuesday morning on College avenue. The cars were driven by D. M. Hubbard, 48, Evanston, Ill., and H. R. Dettmer, 50, Peoria, Ill. Both cars were slightly damaged.

The earliest cotton mill was established in Rhode Island in 1789.

Last Instalments On Income Taxes Are Due on Aug. 1

Balances Due in Outagamie County Amount to $14,556.38

Individuals who paid only the first instalment on their state income taxes on March 15 are advised by J. L. Tibbetts, assessor of incomes, that the last date for payment of the final instalment is Aug. 1. Remittances must be received at the income tax office in the Outagamie county courthouse or the assessor's office at Green Bay on or before that date or the tax becomes delinquent and is subject to a penalty of 2 per cent and interest at the rate of 1 per cent per month.

Tibbetts advised taxpayers that those becoming delinquent on their Aug. 1 payments may expect to receive a warrant from the tax commission as soon as the 30-day allowance by statute has expired and thereafter must pay the additional collection costs and be subject to judgment for the amount of the taxes, penalties, interest and costs due.

There are 298 taxpayers listed in Outagamie county with balances due amounting to $9,029.70 in normal tax, $902.80 in teachers' surtax, $4,623.88 in the 60 per cent surtax. The total is $14,556.38.

In Waupaca county the total due from the 49 listed taxpayers is $1,024.12. Totals for the other counties in the district are: Brown $26,051.03, Calumet $266.96, Door $291.91, Kaukauna $293.94, Manitowoc $7,914.11, Marinette $3,883.68, and Oconto $300.90. The total number of taxpayers with balances in the district is 1,178 while the total amounts due are $33,649.19 in normal tax, $3,140.29 in teachers' surtax, $17,798.55 in the 60 per cent surtax. The grand total is $54,588.03.

Reading Circle Lists

A list of reading circle books for the Outagamie county rural and state graded schools is being prepared for the next term by Henry J. Van Straten, county superintendent. Work has also been started on the school calendar and test book list.

The annual teacher's institute will be held during the latter part of August, Van Straten said.

Publication of Proceedings Is Duty of School Boards

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Publication of school board proceedings is mandatory, the proceedings cannot be abbreviated, and it is the duty of the school board and not the county superintendent to see that proceedings are published, several official attorneys general's opinions in recent weeks have held, it was pointed out today by members of the attorney general's staff.

In the most recent opinion, sent to District Attorney John R. Cashman of Manitowoc county, the state attorney general ruled that the proceedings of all school boards except those in first class cities and those operating under a city school plan must be published within thirty days after the annual meeting.

It has been explained by Attorney General Loomis that the purpose of the publication law is to supply information on school affairs to the residents and taxpayers of the school district.

"The statutes do not contemplate that the minutes shall be condensed or abbreviated but that they shall contain a complete statement of all steps taken at the meeting. If it were permitted to abbreviate or condense the same it would be an easy matter, by taking only part thereof, to materially change the record of the steps taken at the meeting."

Judge to Decide Fate Of Youthful Burglars

The fate of four boys who have admitted committing a series of burglaries in Appleton and vicinity during the last month was to be decided this afternoon by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in juvenile court. The youths, from 12 to 17 years of age, are being held at the county jail pending the outcome of Judge Ryan's decision.

Several more burglaries were cleared up when the youths admitted entering business places in juvenile court yesterday. They are breaking into the Outagamie Equity Exchange, 320 N. Division street; Schaefer's Hardware repair shop; Schaefer dairy, Natio -l Tea store, and Blount Grocery store, 507 W. Wisconsin avenue.

Fire Causes Damage of $150 to Home Basement

Damage of $150 was caused by fire in the basement of the Floyd Menke home, 1836 N. Clark street.

about 5:15 Tuesday afternoon. A kerosene stove flooded and flames spread to the basement ceiling. The blaze was extinguished by the fire department.

Unsettled Skies, Weatherman Says Temperature Will be Higher Tomorrow; 78 Here This Afternoon

The weatherman, beset with unreliable weather all summer long, contended himself today with a prediction of "considerable cloudiness tonight and Friday, unsettled at times."

Temperatures will be higher tomorrow, the Milwaukee bureau reported. At 1 o'clock this afternoon, the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building registered 78 degrees.

For the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning, the highest mark in the city was 72 and the lowest 53, according to charts at the Wisconsin Mechanic Power company plant.

Roseburg, Ore., reported the highest reading in the nation yesterday, 104. Marquette, Mich., with 44, was the coldest city.

Officers Contemplate Lighting Net Courts

Lighted tennis courts for night playing may be a possibility in the near future if park officials approve a plan to erect test lights on several courts at Pierce park, according to Alderman Kibitz, chairman of the recreation committee of the council.

If the park board approves, two types of lights will be installed on two courts at the park for a period of 60 days to determine if there is any demand for night courts.

Two new tennis courts are available for players at City park. The courts were back-topped by the Charles A. Green and Son company. One of the courts is contemplating the addition of lights at Pierce park.

Snowballs to Fly at Two Rivers Festival

Two Rivers - It snowed in Two Rivers Saturday when the city 1938-39 annual midsummer festival.

The snow was used in the winter to be "used" for the occasion. The idea is the outgrowth of an accidental discovery of snow by WPA workers in the midst of a heat wave in July, 1937.

The sponsoring American Legion post has arranged a giant figure palling parade, ice skating and crowning of a queen on a 12-foot throne of ice.

100-YEAR-OLD BUGGY STILL USABLE

The driving buggy pictured above was obviously made before the era of stream-lining. In fact, it is believed to be 100 years old. Purchased by Judge Edgar V. Werner at Shawano five years ago, it has been presented to the Outagamie County Pioneer and Historical society and will be on display at the famous old Grignon home at Kaukauna. It appeared in the Northwest Territory celebration parade this morning.

Pioneer Caravan Parade Highlight; Pageant Tonight

presented in tonight's pageant and brief sketches of each follow:

Albany convention: A gathering of delegates from several American colonies met July 19, 1754, at Albany to formulate a concerted Indian policy.

Capture of Fort Sackville: The capture of this fort by George Rogers Clark was one of the most important steps in the acquisition of the Northwest Territory.

Newburgh incident: In April, 1783, Revolutionary troops, with Timothy Pickens as their scribe, drew up plans for settlement of the Northwest Territory and the laws to govern it. That manuscript has since been known as the "Pickering Petition."

Important Treaty

Treaty of Fort Macintosh: The treaty made possible the settlement of lands in what is now southern Ohio.

"Bunch of Grapes" Tavern meeting: It was at this tavern in a Boston town that the Ohio Company of Associates was formed. Manasseh Cutler was appointed at the gathering to go to New York and present the plan for a colony beyond the Alleghenies.

Meeting of continental congress and adoption of ordinance of 1787. The passage occurred during a meeting in the old New York city hall.

Beginning of trek westward: The first pioneers started westward Dec. 3, 1787, from Ipswich, Mass. On that date last year, the players appearing in tonight's pageant left the same city on a modern trek.

Establishment of the Northwest Territory: The drama of the beginning of the first civil government west of the 13 states and the march of America to the Pacific.

Law Profession Is Rated Highest in Honesty-Bradford

Penalties for Unprincipled Dealings are Severe, Attorney Says

The ratio of crooked lawyers is no higher than the ratio of crooked clients, Alfred S. Bradford, attorney, said in a talk entitled "The Lawyer and the Public" yesterday noon before the Appleton Kiwanis club in the Conway hotel.

"As far as honesty is concerned, the law profession, of necessity, has the highest rating of any profession in the world, because the penalties for dishonesty are the most severe," Bradford stated.

A lawyer not only sees in his every-day work the punishments meted out to the dishonest, but he is faced with ever-present threat of disbarment, with the attending collapse of a professional career, if he is unprincipled in his dealings, Bradford said.

"Another factor is the pitiless publicity to which lawyers are constantly exposed. A lawyer knows, too, that just a few well founded rumors can ruin his career."

The law profession is "generally unpopular," Bradford said, because the client, whose case has been lost often feels personally antagonistic toward the opposing lawyer.

"We are, nevertheless, greatly trusted. The law profession is the repository of many secrets, which clients know will never be divulged."

Clients Are Difficult

Declaring that, in the trying of most cases, the clients, not the lawyers, are the hardest "to get along with," Bradford said: "Nothing irritates or annoys me more than the attitude of the public on the attorney's integrity."

When a lawyer takes a case for a client, he becomes "for all intents and purposes that man," Bradford said. "That is why we are unpopular as a profession."

Bradford answered the charge made by the public that lawyers readily agree to defend persons they know to be guilty by remarking: "We presume every man is innocent until proven guilty." He then related cases in which it seemed that evidence against a man was overwhelming, but he was later proved innocent.

The public often accuses corporate lawyers of "evading the law" for their clients, Bradford said. On this charged he observed: "If law makers make laws so poorly you can drive a horse and wagon through the loopholes, there is no reason why a lawyer shouldn't take advantage of it. The way many laws are being written now—both in state and nation—apparently no one can figure them out properly."

3 Motorists Fined for Breaking Parking Law

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Partly cloudy tonight and Friday, not quite so cool north central portions tonight.

GENERAL WEATHER

Showers have occurred since yesterday morning along the Atlantic coast and scattered sections of the central and plains states, with over three inches of rain falling in Abilene, Texas. However, fair weather is general this morning over most sections of the Mississippi valley westward.

It is now rather cool over the upper lakes, northern plain states and Rocky mountains, but continued warm prevails over the southern states and along the Atlantic coast.

Partly cloudy and continued cool weather is expected in this section during the next 24 hours.

British Seaplane Completes Flight Across Atlantic

tervals "going well" and "flying at moderate speed below clouds."

There were head winds, fog and some rain during the first half of the trip but they caused no trouble to the trim ship, which surpassed Imperial Airways' seaplane Cambria's east-west time of 14 hours 24 minutes, made on an experimental flight last July 27.

The Cambria, however, landed at Botwood, Newfoundland, and it was not at once apparent whether the new time would be accepted as a record, since the Mercury did not land there.

The four-engined plane with pilot and radio operator carried 1,000 gallons of gasoline, was capable of a maximum 210 miles an hour and had a cruising range of 4,000 miles.

The flight was the first of 15 trans-Atlantic test trips Britain plans to make this summer. In addition to the Mercury, two other types of experimental planes are to be used.

One is an improved seaplane, similar to the Imperial Airways Calcutta and Cambria used in 1937, and the Albatross, a land machine.

The Mercury is unique in that it uses the heavier Maiba for the difficult task of getting into the air when heavily loaded. A secret lever arrangement permits the two planes to separate in the air, the larger returning to her base.

For shorter hops the Mercury is capable of taking off by herself, as from here to New York, back to Montreal, to Botwood, and then home.

SWEDEN AND PROGRESS

The visit of Sweden's crown prince to these shores, the celebration of the eightieth birthday of his father back in Stockholm, and a review of the accomplishments of Sweden in connection with other Scandinavian countries, and in respect to social security, the rights of labor, the independence of farmers and the solvency of a nation and its various industries and businesses, have raised wondering eyebrows about a people who can preserve tradition, remain at peace, solve distressing problems and yet maintain financial strength.

Of course the Swedes, and the others who have accomplished about the same results like Holland, Switzerland, Norway and Denmark, started early and didn't try to rush. Pensions in such lands are first earned, and the government wouldn't think of spending the money on a political machine.

We should realize that one of the great difficulties with America is our Aladdin-like way of doing things. There must be no delay. To Halifax with caution. A child that doesn't grow to be a man in a day must have something the matter with him.

The systems of social security in vogue in countries that may look upon us with a wan smile of commiseration have been long in formation, some of them 30 years, others 40, and still others up to 50. They were created without all this bellyache and hurrahing. They were enacted because it was figured they were intrinsically right. Our present problem is to find a practical manner of operating them without disrupting the nation.

Such a procedure is called progress.

THE MAFIA IN AMERICA

The Waukesha probe into the corruption generated by commercialized gambling uncovered a singular phase which few people in Wisconsin could have believed existed in the absence of the most satisfactory evidence.

For a regular organization was created to protect the "rights" of the outlaws. This organization hired an attorney who carried a good name. It held formal meetings. It appointed a secretary who kept and preserved its minutes. And it exacted dues in ample amounts from those who were the beneficiaries of its smeary protection.

The lawyer who participated in this Mafia organization must have been temporarily out of his head. Courts have been severe with lawyers who have ever accepted retainers from men about to commit crime. They become participants in that crime as certainly as the evil-doers who originated it. And although this lawyer escaped the finding of guilty that became the lot of the others, it was a close, narrow and very Scotch verdict.

But after there has been commercialized gambling in a county over a period of years, and the pay-off man has done his stuff, and the unlawful money has increased its stream in apparent safety, a sort of paralysis of the public conscience results. Men, knowing wrong when they see it, delude themselves into thinking they are living in a different era. Everything, in time, is subordinated to getting a hand in the pot and membership in the ring.

But probably the most surprising thing to the participants who felt they were in perfect safety occurs when their house collapses, and it does that as helplessly as an old newspaper blown about the yard by a November gale.

CANADA, AUSTRALIA AND AMERICA

Perhaps we ought to do something about Canadian newspapers.

Picking up the Toronto Globe and Empire, we noted the first editorial concerned unemployment in the dominion to our north.

While our unemployment was increasing 100 per cent during the last year, unemployment in Canada actually decreased 28 per cent, and their total unemployment in proportion to population is but a quarter of ours.

How can this be when Canada lacks a Roosevelt, isn't inorgating the future of its children, and is unacquainted with the masterful principles of the Abundant Life?

The Toronto newspaper had another article dealing with conditions in Australia. It seems that once upon a time Australia was ruled by what was called a radical labor party, which from its program in relation to finances, was very much like the Democratic party under Mr. Roosevelt.

The laborites were voted out, and those who call themselves liberals (there goes that word again) were voted in, and a man by the name of Lyons became head of the government. He has been in office ever since and balanced the budget every year.

Canada and Australia are more nearly comparable with America than most spots on the earth. We all speak the same language. We have practically the same freedom. We support toleration as an essential of life. Nowhere in these countries is there starvation. But in one of them there is a lot of governmental foolishness.

That one has perpetual unbalanced budgets, deepening debts, mounting taxes, and business stagnation.

Those who belong to the British Empire have an odd sort of notion about royalty. They like and support it of course. But they would not think of letting it run their government. Their royal family attends balls and parties, sits at banquets, dedicates new buildings, and thus fills a very necessary public niche.

But their rulers, their real rulers, are never members of the royal family.

A NEW FRONTIER

It may be that a new frontier will be opened to the adventuresome type of American in whose veins flows the blood of pioneering ancestors. The Brazilian correspondent of the New York Times reports that the United States and Brazilian governments are considering plans to speed the colonization of Brazil's huge State of Mato Grosso. Officials of the South American republic are said to be willing to amend their Nation's restrictive immigration laws to smooth the path for immigrants from the United States who are "of the right sort."

The report is that the United States and Brazilian governments, under the proposal, would share transportation expenses and Brazil would allot large tracts of land to each immigrant.

Apparently the correspondent knows what he is talking about, although he admitted in one dispatch that Rio de Janeiro spokesmen for the two governments would neither confirm nor deny that negotiations are in progress. If Washington has commented, the fact has escaped the attention of most persons.

Mato Grosso is one of Brazil's largest states. Its climate resembles that of California. Cattle raising is the principal industry. The land is rich. There is immense potential wealth in the state's virgin forests. A comparative handful of Americans and Britons already are settled in the area, raising cattle.

If the reported scheme gets past the conversational stage it may be expected that it will occasion more comment than the government's Matanuska valley (Alaska) colonization effort.

In that instance, the government smoothed the path for colonists from Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan who sought a new frontier under the American flag. Expresses and steamboats were the modern equivalents of the prairie schooners which were dragged across the western plains and deserts and the sailing vessels which beat their way around Cape Horn to open up the last frontiers in that segment of the continent which now is the United States.

It was not so important that this government "paid the freight" in contrast with the western push of pioneers who paid their own way some decades ago. The important thing was that this government recognized that former frontiers are closed and that it was attempting to demonstrate the American pioneering spirit is not dead. The Matanuska experiment, now happily well established, could only be conducted on a small scale, in one small Alaskan valley, for that land does not offer promise of providing outlet for more than a trickle of the pushing, pioneering spirit which one likes to believe remains an American characteristic.

The Mato Grosso suggestion is something else. Never previously, if one's memory serves, has this government advocated and abetted, formally, a plan to aid its people in establishing new homes on foreign soil and under a foreign flag. For four hundred years the territory which now is the United States has attracted the bolder, the more adventurous spirits of other lands. Once established here, a goal had been reached. There was little thought of new frontiers. True, Canada and Mexico have lured thousands of the more venturesome, and Americans are to be found in the far corners of the world. But there has been no great emigration from these shores.

The suggestion that a new frontier exists is certain to excite interest. If the new frontier is opened it is certain that many Americans, as we designate ourselves, will push into the new land. Stay-at-homes will be envious of their courage and of their opportunity. But it will be just as well if all of this nation's adventurous blood is not drained into Mato Grosso. Nor is it likely to be.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

POETRY

She has looked bodily in the face of Death,
And walked with Tragedy a bitter way;
And yet she has no biting word to say.
The gentle phrase falls on her quiet breath.

The petty troubles of the fleeting hour
Cannot assail a spirit that has stood
Beneath an avalanche and gathered power
To see life squarely and to find it good.

Her eyes are deep brown wells of kindness,
She has no criticism for small faults.

Dale Harrison's
In Old New York

New York—A young man came to see me the other day and asked me to write a little piece for the papers about caps.

"But it sounds silly," I expostulated. (You should see Harrison when he expostulates.)

He bristled.

"You can't talk that way about caps," he shouted, in a rage.

I mollified him. (You also should see Harrison when he mollifies.)

"Why should you be so eager to have me compose an essay on caps?" I asked. A writer should always have some reason for writing, though often I wonder.

He leaned close and whispered: "The cap manufacturers of America want to do their part toward recovery. They want to make a lot of caps and a lot of jobs and a lot of money. They realize that if they make a lot of money most of it will go to the government for taxes, but they are very patriotic and don't mind—provided they make a lot of caps. They can't make caps, however, if people do not wear them. You can see there wouldn't be any sense in it."

I told him I could see it.

"What we must do," he went on, "is to make American men capconscious. We must sing the praises of this remarkable form of headpiece until men innumerable to themselves: 'Life will be a hollow shell for me unless I get a cap or two.'"

"So you want me to write a piece about caps," I said. I catch on quick.

"It is your bounden duty," he said solemnly.

Caps. I like caps. I look swell in a cap. Rakish is the word. All my life I have had a hidden hope that the time would come when I could sally forth in a cap—something in a conservative plaid, perhaps—without having little children run at the sight, or cops pinch me as a suspicious person.

From time to time I buy caps. What happens? I come home jauntily, flaunting my crown of tweed. What happens? Louella has a tantrum. "I told you never to wear a cap! You look like a schoolboy!" Then I say: "I am a schoolboy at heart, Sugar. You pay a high compliment when you say Papa looks like a schoolboy." Then she says: "No compliment is intended, you sartorial bum." This naturally hurts my feelings. Such talk!

I put the cap on the shelf. Next day I go to do it. The cap is gone! Not a trace of it. Do you know why? That woman has thrown it down the incinerator! She's allergic to caps. She doesn't like caps. She hates 'em.

I know how this must make the cap manufacturers feel. There they are, machinery and everything, all ready to make a lot of caps; and the only thing that stops them is Woman. So the cap makers and the government and all the skilled cap workers suffer, all because of Woman's silly caprice.

I said to Louella: "Madam the time will come when throwing a man's cap down the incinerator will be recognized as a capital crime. Do I throw away your funny hats? No! I know my place. I may laugh at them, but I certainly wouldn't dream of incinerating them. Leave me my caps. Did you know that Yehudi Menuhin wore a cap? And King George of England? And Warner Baxter, Adolphe Menjou, Bing Crosby, Al Jolson, Babe Ruth, Ronald Colman, Senator Carter Glass? And the late John D. Rockefeller? Ah! I getcha there, madam. Those are real gents—and cap wearers."

"You ain't got nobody nowhere," she retorted. She is a disciple of the double negative school when running a fever. "You buy a cap. I throw it away. I can throw 'em as long as you can buy 'em."

Caps. I like caps. I look swell in a cap. Rakish. But you see what I'm up against. Naturally I'm master in my house. If I want to wear a cap I'll wear a cap—but it is so bothersome having to sit up all night and guard it.

So I reluctantly told the young man I couldn't see my way clear to write a piece about caps. He shook his finger under my nose and said: "You are a fraidy cat. You are baffled by mere dame."

I got mad. I shook my finger right back. (You should see Harrison when he shakes his finger right back.)

"Leave my sanctum!" I bellowed. "Here's you HAT!"

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, July 19, 1928

D. W. Bergstrom, Jr., and Edmund Lachman, both of Neenah, had gone to Wisconsin Rapids to take part in the Northeastern Wisconsin golf association tournament.

Articles of incorporation for the C. C. Nelson Publishing company were filed with A. G. Koeh, register of deeds, that morning. Members of the firm were F. F. Wheeler, C. C. Nelson, Appleton, and S. F. Shattuck, Neenah.

C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary of the Galesburg, Ill. Y.M.C.A., was to visit J. W. Pugh, boys' work secretary at Appleton. They planned to inspect Camp Onaway Sunday.

Another pier of the S. Oneida street bridge had become undermined it was discovered the previous day and if gates in the middle dam were opened it was feared it may collapse.

Sunday was to be the best day for people wishing to visit the Door county cherry orchards if they wished to obtain a view of the bumper crop to be harvested.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, July 21, 1913

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Foreman left that morning for an extended trip to Cincinnati and the east as far as Niagara Falls. Mr. Foreman was dictator of the Appleton Loyal Order of Moose lodge and was to attend that annual national convention of the Moose lodge as a delegate at Cincinnati.

Negotiations were to be closed the following day for the purchase of the A. L. Smith property, corner of Lave and Alton streets, by Lawrence college. The college intends to use the house as a girls' dormitory.

Charles Potter, assistant cashier at the Chicago and North Western depot, had been transferred to Neenah as billing clerk and was to be succeeded here by Arthur Zschechacher.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Smith had moved to Appleton from Oshkosh. Mr. Smith had bought an interest in the barber shop of his brother, William Smith, Appleton street.

If the United States were populated as densely as Holland, its population would be 1800 million inhabitants instead of 127 million.

In 1929 over 19 million families had yearly incomes of less than $2,500, and in 16 million families the income was less than $2,000.

Over 102 million women were gainfully employed in the U. S. at the time of the 1930 census, six times as many as in 1870.

Beyond the little day, her great soul vaults.
Above the sordid earth her light feet press.
Her face, alive with wisdom and with truth,
Arrests my thought . . . Behind her eyes there gleam
The purity and loveliness of youth.
The fervor that once kindled my own dream!

A Bystander
In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVEER

Washington, D. C.—Old Kentucky politicians would be glad for a return of the old days when outside interference in primaries was limited, when a candidate battled alone for his nomination and the state counted the dead and wounded before it tabulated the vote.

The Barkley-Chandler contest isn't following that pattern.

Time was when Kentucky primaries were little short of revolutions, but gradually there grew up a system in which each candidate worked for himself. He claimed little aid from national or state administrations, depending instead upon his own organization and friends.

Our information is that such was especially true regarding U. S. senators until Governor Chandler bowlled over the idea in 1936 by turning his state organization against Senator Logan, without success.

How It Was Done

Chandler has made Kentucky political history ever since in 1935 at the age of 37 he whipped an opposing state organization under Governor Ruby Laffoon and won the Democratic nomination for governor.

He paved the way for this feat by calling a special session of the legislature when Governor Laffoon left the state, leaving Chandler, then lieutenant governor, in charge.

The legislature, following Chandler's lead, instituted a general primary, which partly nullified the force of Laffoon's state organization. Chandler's victory over Laffoon's candidate, Thomas S. Rhea, was an amazing upset and split the party so widely that both each candidate and Logan had to rush to Kentucky to campaign in the general elections for Chandler.

They switched the campaign to national issues to prevent a party split that might have meant a Republican victory.

At that time Chandler's nomination and election were hailed as New Deal victories, since Laffoon had broken with Roosevelt.

That title of "Happy" was not given Chandler for nothing. He is a back-slapping, money-singing campaigner with a friendly way that charms even some of his political opponents. But he is no political peacemaker. His history is studded with battling headlines.

It's Different Now

Friends of Senator Logan say that in 1936 Chandler promised "hands off" in the primary. Instead he not only put up his own candidate, former Governor J. C. W. Beckman, but brought upon himself charges from a third candidate, Rep. John Young Brown, that he had failed him of promised support.

Barkley associates now say that Chandler once agreed not to enter the lists against Kentucky's senior senator, only to decide later to seek the job himself.

The whole picture has changed in three years. In 1935, Chandler's election was declared to have "saved Kentucky for Roosevelt in 1936." This year President Roosevelt moves in to Kentucky in an effort to defeat Chandler and have Barkley. In 1935, Republicans protested WPA workers were directed to help Chandler. Now Chandler charges WPA is being used against him.

To a degree the situation has put Chandler in a false light. He is spotlighted as the candidate of Roosevelt's enemies. Yet he continues to profess his loyalty to the President.

So much of the betting money is on Barkley that some observers thought Chandler could have guaranteed himself a political future by withdrawing with the explanation that he had been put in the false position of opposing Roosevelt. But Chandler is not waiting for futures.

Britain Builds New Air Base for Far East Fleet

Singapore—Now that the fortifications at Singapore, Great Britain's $50,000,000 naval air base in the Far East, are nearing completion, authorities are concentrating on the defenses of Penang.

Penang, the most northerly of the Straits Settlements, commands the entrances to the Malacca Straits, through which all shipping between the Indian Ocean and the China Sea has to pass.

Fort Cornwallis, the historic fort in Penang built in the early days of the British settlement, is not to be modernized. The civilian population wish it to remain an open space. The wish has been respected, and a site near by has been selected for new fortifications. Reclamation work to permit extensions is being carried out.

Thousands of Asiatic laborers are working on the military contracts, which provide for barracks, an aerodrome and an office building. Gun emplacements are being prepared.

The Penang R. A. F. aerodrome and another at Sungai Patani, on the mainland, will provide the key to the defenses of North Malaya.

Eventually a third aerodrome at Kota Bharu, on the east coast at the Malay-Siam border, will be built, the landing having already been acquired.

Think Tooth Belongs to Africa's Missing Link

Capetown—A tooth, believed by its finder to belong to South Africa's "missing link," has been discovered in Transvaal.

Dr. Robert Broom, paleontologist at the Transvaal Museum in Pretoria, found the tooth in a cave at Sterkfontein, about 30 feet below the cave in which he discovered the Australopithecus skull in August, 1936. Dr. Broom held that this skull was the "missing link" to be that of Australopithecus. Dr. Broom said, "Though not quite perfect, it shows sufficient characteristics to leave no doubt that it is the canine tooth of a primate."

Dr. Broom believes the canine is almost human and that it is not in the least like the large canines of a chimpanzee or gorilla.

"It certainly cannot belong to the same individual as the skull, but it is almost certain that it is of the same species," he said.

DOUGLAS CORRIGANN NEEDN'T THINK HE'S THE ONLY ONE THAT STARTED FOR CALIFORNIA AND LANDED IN IRELAND

WHERE AM I?

Your Birthday

"CANCER"

If July 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m., and from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are 8:30 to 10:30 a. m.; from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. and from 9:30 to 11:30 p. m.

Cool-headedness is apt to be one of the most important traits you will have to exhibit to get through the day successfully. A placid disposition, in all probability may accomplish things that a highly excitable one might spoil. Avoid rushing yourself or other people this day, for general conditions do not appear to be conducive for the use of speed, either in commercial or social affairs. Be careful not to contradict anyone about any statement he or she makes before being sure that you are right. Conflicting assertions and hasty reputations may be among the day's most serious mistakes. This appears to be a very auspicious day for people born on this date, so if this is your natal day you can expect a lot of good luck. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are deeply enamored of someone's rare charm or gentleness, must exercise caution that they do not fall out over some foolish little thing this day.

If a woman and July 22 is your birthday, you may expect too much perfection from those who are near and dear to you. You are likely to inspire a great deal of love in relatives and friends, which you must safeguard against the destructive forces of fault-finding and nagging. You ought to be very courageous and possess an unusual amount of self-confidence. You apparently are a lover of nature, art and music. Generous almost to a fault, you will most likely brighten the lives of many people by acts of kindness. You should have very skillful fingers, with probably a decided talent for playing some musical instrument. Through social welfare, educational or technical search work, as well as writing or a specialized line of selling you should have a bright and prosperous future. The matrimonial lives of women born on this date are generally filled with happiness and contentment.

The child born on July 22 should have much rhythmic grace a love for books, rivalled only by a fondness for sports. Ambition and an aggressive spirit, in all likelihood, will enable it to become successful.

If a man and July 22 is your natal day, you may have a genius for making money. You are perhaps fond of the country, the city, boating, fishing and hunting, and ought to have a strong appeal to you. As a chemist, engineer, inventor, manufacturer, banker, lawyer, politician, physician or broker, you might be exceptionally fortunate in a business way.

Successful People Born on July 22:

Henry R. Marshall, architect and author.

Emma Lazarus, author.

John C. Kilgo, educator.

Frank H. Cushing, ethnologist.

William Sooy Smith, civil engineer.

Thomas W. Harvey, inventor.

Ancient Chinese Got Their Music From Air

Chicago—(7)—Long before radio filled the ether with swing tunes and symphonies the Chinese employed music from the air by attaching whistles to the tails of pigeons. They released the birds over their cities.

The Field Museum, Chicago, has acquired a collection of these whistles made from reeds and small gourds. The whistles contained from two to eight pipes each.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

TRACHEITIS IS LARYNGITIS. BRONCHITIS IS AS BAD

Medical name for the windpipe is trachea. Upper part of the trachea is the voice-box or larynx. Prominent part of the cartilage forming the larynx is commonly known as the Adam's apple. At the lower end the windpipe divides into the bronchi, two tubes leading to the right and left lungs.

Inflammation of the windpipe lining is called tracheitis; inflammation of the upper part or voice box lining is called laryngitis; inflammation of the tubes into which the trachea divides is bronchitis; whether the inflammation is confined to the two main tubes or extends into their smaller divisions is going to all parts of the lungs.

Characteristic of acute laryngitis is hoarseness or temporary loss of voice, with much unproductive coughing in the early stage of irritation.

Essential treatment is (a) absolute rest of voice, which means not even the attempt to whisper—this silence is what makes acute laryngitis so dreadful for members of a certain sex, I dare not say which sex; (b) cold moist compresses on the Adam's apple if you know more than I do about it; you needn't follow my advice; it's a free country and your neck's your own; (c) begin immediately taking Old Doctor Brady's Footprint Cough Medicine every two hours, as directed in Little Lesson No. 5—"Call it Cri"; (d) every hour or two inhale for a few minutes the steam or vapor arising from a pitcher of boiling water or an old coffee pot of boiling water in which a tablespoon of compound tincture of benzoin is stirred.

All of these measures are equally helpful in acute tracheitis or acute bronchitis. In any such acute illness, especially if accompanied with chilliness or chills and feverishness, a hot mustard foot bath administered by a nurse or some one who understands how, to the patient in bed, is always beneficial in the early stage. Next best general measure of alleviation is a hot bath before the patient gets into bed. Purpose of either is simply to equalize the circulation, withdraw blood to the surface from the congested areas, not to produce sweating particularly.

Remedial factor of importance commonly overlooked is air-conditioning. Whatever means will increase the amount of water vapor in the air will add materially to the patient's comfort. Excessively dried out, artificially heated air is irritating to the inflamed mucous membrane of larynx, trachea or bronchial tubes.

In my judgment there is no advantage in taking saline or other cathartics or laxatives in the early stage of such illness, except in the presence of unusual complications.

From scientific study and from long observation in practice I am convinced that it doesn't matter whether the patient takes milk, soups, weak tea or coffee, lemonade or other fruit juice beverages hot or cold—as long as plenty of fluid is taken the patient's individual preference should decide whether it shall be hot or cold.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Liver and Kidney

At our house lamb's kidneys and calf's liver are favorites. We prefer them rare. Any objection? (M. C.)

Answer—Any kind of meat is harmless if thoroughly cooked. Rare meat is safe if you are certain it contains no parasitic larvae, for example.

Heme Made Ice

Referring to your advice that ice cubes made in the household refrigerator are as pure as ice made in the factory, isn't it true that butter, cheese, fruit and vegetables in the refrigerator impart their flavor to the ice cubes? (J. P. T.)

Answer—We have never noticed it. No doubt certain foods kept in the refrigerator may impart their characteristic taste to the ice.

Raise a Family

I am subject to chronic bronchitis. Have lived on farm all my life. Am outdoors most of time, horseback riding, walking. Would like to have a baby but have Ben Told miscarriage would be inevitable because of my cough. (Mrs. C. P. S.)

Answer—Unless your doctor advises against it you should go ahead and raise a family while or if it is still possible. Send ten cents coin for "Preparing for Maternity" and enclose a stamped envelope bearing your address. If the envelope will carry two booklets and bears sufficient postage, a copy of the Brady Better Baby Book will be included. (Copyright, 1938)

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, 285 El Camino, South, Beverly Hills, Calif. (Copyright, 1938)

Graduates at 60; Wants To Get Job on Newspaper

Montreal—"It's never too late to learn, and if you don't believe that ask James Stevenson Cushing, 60-year-old member of the graduating class of Sir George Williams College.

Cushing retired from farming two years ago, and with time hanging heavy on his hands decided to leave his farm at Ville St. Laurent and enter college.

He was fearful at first lest his much younger colleagues bar him from extra curricular activities at the university. His first year there, however, found him contributing to the college paper, which kindled a desire for the newspaper business which he intends to pursue.

It's either the newspaper business or teaching," Cushing said, "and I think I'll try a whirl at journalism first."

New Bank Keeps Vane For Sale of Old Times

London—(7)—A wind vane, with a recorder fixed in the court room, has been retained for old time's sake in the new Bank of England building now nearing completion in the heart of London's financial district.

It is a relic of the days when directors of the bank were merchants and needed to know the direction of the wind because they were depending on the arrival of cargoes brought by sailing ships.

Can't Hear Police Over Market Noise

Paris—(7)—Paris policemen have found that they can't contend with the barrel-chested Norman farmers who hawk their wares in Paris' central markets, so loud speakers have been installed at the markets to aid the officers.

Traffic in the market zone has been in a hopeless tangle for years because the policemen couldn't make themselves heard above the bellows of the farmer merchant-men.

Expect Henry to Be LaFollette's Strong Opponent

Coalition Candidate Likely To be Parties' Conservative Standard Bearer

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—While Progressives this week were seemingly completely engrossed in their own affairs, the conviction grew in independent circles that the Wisconsin election this year will be resolved into a conservative versus LaFollette battle, with Robert K. Henry likely to be the conservative standard bearer with the tacit approval of strong elements in both the Republican and Democratic parties.

While there is no direct evidence of such a probable line of action, it is being inferred by many interested in the course of state politics—including some Progressive administration bright minds from the apparent inability or unwillingness of both old parties to bring out strong candidates for governor.

To begin with few Democrats can be found just now who have any real hope that their candidate, Jerome Fox of Chilton, is going to be elected governor if Phil LaFollette is an opposing candidate. And that includes Fox himself, who required considerable persuasion from the party heads to consent to having his name head the party ticket.

In the Republican ranks most of the available lumber is in the race for the senate, leaving the prospects for a gubernatorial candidacy in the party rather hopeless. Two men are announced candidates, James Peterson of Medford and Julius Heil of Milwaukee.

May Get Both
There is, however, the coalition candidate for governor, Robert K. Henry of Jefferson. Henry will be filed in both party primaries as a candidate for the governorship, and will run in the general election on the ticket which gave him most votes. Because he has carried great influence in the councils of Wisconsin Democrats, and because he has made important alliances with strong Republican leaders, there are not a few observers of state politics who are predicting now that unless other, strong candidates appear in the Democratic and Republican parties, Henry will capture both nominations.

If he did, both parties would be forced to support him in the general election, effecting a coalition of necessity against the LaFollette ticket. It may be mentioned in passing that some of the Progressive campaign experts won't welcome such a contingency. The reason: there are more Republican and Democratic votes in Wisconsin, by far, than there are Progressive votes.

Thus the best political opinion in the state today is wondering whether there isn't a coalition movement underfoot in Wisconsin by omission, by the failure of the two old parties to put up strong candidates.

Watts to Attend Meeting Of College Association

Ralph J. Watts, Lawrence college business manager, will leave Sunday to attend the 28th annual meeting of the Association of College and University Business Officers at University of Wyoming in Laramie, Wyo. The meeting will be held Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

Watts is president of the national association. Following the meeting at Wyoming, he will attend the national convention of Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity at San Francisco Aug. 2-6.

9th Graders May Get Adult Library Cards

Mrs. Nancy B. Thomas, librarian, today reminded children entering the ninth grade this fall that they are eligible to apply for adult cards at the Appleton Public Library. The librarian advised pupils to apply for transfer before the opening of the fall school term.

HIGH BLOOD Pressure can be reduced in many cases and symptoms relieved, says eminent physician

Dr. Frederic Damrau, eminent physician of New York City, says that ALLUMIN Essence of Garlic Pills Tablets often help to reduce High Blood Pressure, and that the continued use of these tablets at prescribed intervals helps to keep the blood pressure down "by dilating the peripheral capillaries of the body surface, thus lessening the burden upon the heart." This is only one of the beneficial effects offered by the use of these tablets, says Dr. Damrau. To get the full facts, send your name and address to: VAV. PATTON PHARMACEUTICAL CO., 54 W. Illinois St., Chicago, Ill., and a valuable booklet on High Blood Pressure will be sent you free. Better still, give ALLUMIN Tablets a trial and learn for yourself how much they may help you. Ellises on 10-Day Trip To New York

M. R. and Mrs. A. R. Ellis, 905 S. Memorial drive, are spending 10 days in New York and other points in the east on a vacation trip. They are expected back at the end of the week.

The Rev. and Mrs. E. F. Eske, Milwaukee, were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tark, 1415 W. Fourth street, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Ade A. Kirsch, 915 W. 4th street, returned yesterday from a two weeks' visit with relatives in Newark, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Duval, 414 E. Summer street, returned yesterday from a two weeks' trip into Canada. They stopped at the Thousand Islands, Toronto, Montreal, Quebec, the shrine at St. Anne de Beaupre and visited at the home of the Honorable Wilson Mills, a member of parliament, at Ottawa. They returned by way of the St. Lawrence basin, stopping at Toledo Detroit and Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Coate, Wilmington, Ohio, and their son, Kenneth A. Coate, Park Ridge, Ill., spent Tuesday with Dr. and Mrs. L. H. Moore, 1105 E. Eldorado street. Alvin Coate is an uncle of Dr. Moore.

Miss Mary Lee Watkins, Washington, D. C., will be the weekend guest of Mrs. Jean West Goshline at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. J. West, 202 River drive. She will arrive Friday from Madison where she is attending summer school at the University of Wisconsin. Mrs. LaFollette Aids in Organization of New Party

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau MADISON—Being first lady for the state of Wisconsin, and presiding at the numerous social functions required in the state's executive residence form one part of the life of a governor's wife, but not the most important. Mrs. Phillip F. LaFollette—Isabel Bacon LaFollette in women's party circles—is demonstrating that just now.

With the same quiet efficiency and practical point of view which has made her a valued assistant in her husband's numerous Wisconsin political campaigns, Mrs. LaFollette is now at work organizing the women of her party into her husband's new political party, the National Progressives of America. Scores of letters have gone out under her name, to women in Wisconsin and elsewhere, in her self-appointed job of enrolling voters into the new national organization. The results? "Letters are pouring in from all over the country, and I am delighted at the response from women," she says.

Pledge Support Many other pledges are coming in, she adds, from womenfolk who want to join the NPA, but who report "that the dollar simply isn't there."

National Progressive activities currently are being concentrated in a canvassing campaign by party workers to sell party buttons at a dollar apiece in order to build up a campaign fund. A women's division has been organized at national headquarters in the capital city.

"In these days of confusion people have been grasping the NPA symbol as first foundation for their ideals and hopes," the governor's wife is writing state women enthusiastically. "There is no doubt but that the old party lines are breaking," she explains, echoing the governor's speeches. "Now is the time for Progressive women to perfect their organization and to get new members who are looking for a constructive answer to our problems."

Surprise Party Is Held In Honor of Newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Pernot were honored with a surprise party Tuesday evening at their home, north of Clintonville. The guests were members of the Bell Corners school district in the township of Bear Creek. Mrs. Pernot, the former Faye Besserdich, taught the Bell Corners rural school for the last three years. Games and contests provided entertainment during the evening, after which a luncheon was served. Forty-five persons were present for the occasion and presented a gift to Mr. and Mrs. Pernot, whose marriage took place June 29.

Jeanne Meyer Honored At Pre-Nuptial Party

Miss Jeanne Meyer, daughter of Mrs. Mabel R. Meyer, 221 N. Morrison street, who will be married to John R. Curtis, Jr., Chester, Pa., on Aug. 16, was honored at a shower given last evening at the home of Mrs. A. James Lytle, 627 S. Mueller street. Prizes at contract bridge were won by the Misses Lucille Wichman and Betty Meyer. Miss Jeanne Meyer was presented with a gift.

Council Splits City Engineer's Job Three Ways

opposition aldermen. Alderman McGillan was first to his feet. He said he thought the action was a little hasty and wanted more time to think it over.

Alderman Brautigan said: "Why should we make a change? The department has been run efficiently and they have always done all right. I think we got a good man on the job. Is there a man on this council that has a complaint or that hasn't got service? I don't think the engineer has been on the job long enough to know what it's all about."

Favors Practical Man

Frankie said he would match a practical man along side of a technical man any time and Alderman Steinhauser maintained "the man on the job always performed his duty and shouldn't be demoted."

After the first outburst, Mayor Goodland said: "You all know the street department is not efficient and last winter was a good example of efficiency in that department. The new engineer doesn't want that to happen again and he's only trying to build up the department's personnel. What's more, the taxpayers know there is no efficiency there. The last election proved that. There are many things I can say about that department that I don't like to say in public and any alderman who votes against reorganization had better watch his step."

Alderman Steinhauser came back with: "When the mayor was away last winter, I got cooperation from the department and if there's anything wrong there the public should know. Alderman Harrison said 'there's more disloyalty in the department now than before election' while Alderman Franke blamed the lack of efficiency last winter to the lack of equipment."

Scores Mayor

Alderman Brautigan said: "I don't like your remarks. I don't think this setup is right and I don't think your judgment is any better than mine. All you want to do is to add another salary on the taxpayers."

At that point Alderman Kubitiz thought it would be a good idea to go into a committee of the whole and finish the fight Alderman Keller agreed with him but the battle continued on the floor.

"Sometimes older men have to take a back seat for a younger man as times change and I think for the benefit of the department and the city, we should give the engineer a technical man."

Wickesberg was asked to defend his position and said: "There have been charges of a political appointment which I don't like. The man being hired is a friend of the former city engineer and I didn't know him until after I was elected. He knows cost accounting and how to figure jobs. Harris is qualified to fill the job. I am recommended for the good of the city and I want to spend more time on engineering work."

Recalls 14 Years

Alderman McGillan said: "As long as I sit on this council I'll never vote an old man out and a new man in. I worked there 14 years and I know a little more about the street department than the engineer does in two months."

After several more charges of politics Wickesberg declared he had no political friends and asked no man's support in his election.

"If you don't approve, you are voting against efficiency in the department," Alderman Thompson said. Aldermen DeLand, Keller and Kent agreed and maintained they would support the engineer in his recommendation.

Alderman Vanderheyden stated he would not vote for any more jobs and accused the engineer of "trying to get out from under the responsibility of the street department."

Cost of curbs and gutters under the city-wide WPA project was set at 50 cents per foot. Aldermen Franke and Steinhauser cast dissenting votes. The action was taken so that property owners would know what curbs cost before they petition the council for the improvement.

The City Clerk

was ordered to write to the water commission informing it to prepare a WPA project covering installation of water mains and to submit the project for council approval.

Suggests Ordinance

Alderman Vanderheyden introduced a resolution suggesting an ordinance to set cost of building permits to build a fund in that department.

partment. The resolution was referred to the ordinance committee. A representative of the Appleton Yacht club appeared before the council and requested a PWA project to build uniform yacht slips on the river bank. He said the slips could be rented to boat owners and would pay for themselves within a few years. The suggestion was referred to the building and grounds committee and the park board.

Letters from electrical workers unions in Appleton asking the city to let all electrical work, including WPA, on a contract basis were supported by Charles Debenack, president of the Building Trades Council. He maintained the city could not recruit competent tradesmen from the ranks of the unemployed and relief personnel.

When Alderman Knuyt asked the city attorney for an opinion on re-submitting the 18-ward plan to the people, the attorney explained he was waiting for an opinion from the attorney general which he would get through the district attorney. Conflicting state laws on the subject make it difficult to determine the legality of the question.

Improve Curves

If a satisfactory arrangement can be made with property owners, the northeast corner of Pacific and Superior street intersection and the northeast corner of Packard street and N. Division street intersection will be cut back to form an easier curve and in the interests of safe driving, aldermen decided.

Councilmen authorized the improvement of the curve at the northwest corner of Prospect avenue and Rogers avenue and approved the opening of a new street, Summer street from Linwood avenue, provided the land needed is donated to the city.

Other Street Improvements

approved by the council include: oiling, Summit street from Winnebago to Commercial; Nicholas street from Oneida to Drew; Winnebago from Summit to Linwood; and Spring street from Summit to Madison; new sidewalks, Winnebago street near Mason street; east side of Erb street from Parkway boulevard to the present walk; south side of Oklahoma street east of Mason where not now in place; north side of Commercial street; and South side of Spring street.

Curbs and Gutters

Curbs and gutters were ordered built on the following streets as part of the city-wide WPA project: Parkway boulevard from Appleton to Alvin street; Winnebago street from Drew to Morrison street; Winnebago street from Oneida to Appleton street; E. Franklin street from Rankin to Catherine street; W. Harris street from Richmond street to Badger avenue; Spring street from Appleton to Superior street; E. Hancock street from Meade street to Rankin street; and Fifth street from Story street west to the end.

The following sidewalks were ordered repaired under the city-wide WPA project: west side of Locust street from Third to Fourth streets; south side of Eighth street from Locust street to Pierce avenue; south side of Lawrence street east of Victoria; south side of Maple street from Jackson to Lawe street; 1707 N. Appleton street.

Plans for a sewer on Harrison street were approved and the work was ordered as a taxpayers project. The board of public works was authorized to assess benefits and damages.

Press Probe No Answer To New Deal Criticism

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—The most provocative editorial that I have read in a year was the one in which the New York Daily News, a New Deal paper, proposed an investigation of the press. There was one bug in it. That this President Roosevelt's answer to criticism of himself and to publicity regarding Jimmy's insurance business.

He said Alva Johnston's article in the Saturday Evening Post entitled "Jimmy's Got It" in effect accused the president and Jimmy of being crooks and grafters—a conclusion with which I disagree, believing that at the very worst they have only been measured alongside the president's own expressed concept of ethical official conduct and that the decision as to whether they do or don't measure up has been left to the people. He puts the tape on other people's ethics, and their morals, too, doesn't he?

An investigation of the press would not be an answer. The investigation would defeat its own purpose if it were offered as an answer, because any publisher or publicist who got his bib caught in the wringer would holler "persecution!" and "lese majesty!" and play off the motive against the results.

But, aside from this stipulation, I agree with the captain's idea and offer as a constructive suggestion that the investigation by all means include an inquiry into the foreign press of this country, which is a mystery to all of us non-foreigners or monolingualists and might be promoting sedition under foreign subsidy given in the form of money or official honors from European dictators.

These papers circulate in little clots of foreign-minded Americans, hyphen-Americans and anti-Americans, and it would be consistent with the investigation to see from their files what they have been saying about the country which is their host. And if this investigation is to go into the financial life of the American press, on a proof for obligations which might impose hidden but potent motives for their editorial policies, our foreign press should be similarly inspected. Our religious press, too. Let's make it a party.

Would Have to Stand For Almost Any Committee

Offhand I can't think of enough high-minded statesmen in both houses of congress to make a quorum for such an investigating body, but we would have to stand for whatever we got in the way of personnel, even though it included Minton, of Indiana. Otherwise we would seem to be saying that an investigation would be all right, but that out business is so noble and sensitive that men don't exist who are fit to ask questions, and that, therefore, to our great regret, we would have to forego the pleasure of vindicating our honor. I wish I knew the precise locashut up about the New Deal and fall back on the old "swat the fly" and "crime must go" editorial formula. I submit that this is the most common and most arrogant error of the New Deal and its editorial supporters; that if you don't agree with them you are dangerous and probably a louse.

Ladies Aid Society Has Picnic at Dale Park

Dale—Mr. and Mrs. James Powers and children of Waukegan, Ill., visited at the Joe Seif home last week. Mrs. Ed Brannen and Miss Velma Grossman of Milwaukee spent the weekend at the August Grossman home.

Mrs. W. W. Grossman and son, Bruce and Miss Verona Lovejoy and Earl Nelson spent Sunday at Camp McCoy with Birdell Grossman.

The Ladies Aid society of the Lutheran church and families of members had a picnic in the R. N. A. park Sunday.

Mrs. Ernie Lambton of Los Angeles, Calif., spent a few hours at the Emil Grossman home Friday.

The Misses Louise Seif, Anita and Glenna Jean Grossman and Donald Wendt of New London and Arden Wendt of West Bloomfield motored to Shawano Lake, Keshena and Rainbow Falls Sunday.

William Havelstein is visiting friends at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Seif of Dale and Mr. and Mrs. James Powers of Waukegan, Ill., spent two days at Neillsville last week.

Don't Let Constipation Drag On!

Do you often have days when you wake up tired—when you feel dull, sunk, "all bogged down"? It's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble! If you eat what most people do—just bread, meat, potatoes—chances are that just this fact is responsible: you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines that helps a bowel movement. If this is your trouble, what you need is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains "bulk" plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B. Eat it every day. Drink plenty of water, and see if your old sparkle doesn't come back! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

80 Musicians of 6 County Schools Will Give Concert

Massed Band to Play at Courthouse Dedication Ceremony

Neenah—A band composed of 80 musicians selected from Winnebago County high schools bands will present a concert preceding the dedication address by Frank B. Keefe, Oshkosh attorney, at the dedication exercises for the new Winnebago county courthouse Wednesday, July 27, at Oshkosh.

The program from the dedication has been completed, it was announced Wednesday at a meeting of the courthouse building committee.

The young musicians will combine under the name of Winnebago County School band and will be made up of 15 musicians of St. Mary High school of Menasha, 15 from Menasha High school band, a similar number from Neenah High school band, 10 from Oshkosh High school's musical unit, 10 from Winnebago High school band and the remainder from Oshkosh High school band.

Concert At 1:30

The Neenah and Menasha players will be brought to Oshkosh by bus and will hold a rehearsal at the Trinity Guild hall during the morning. They also will be provided with a lunch at the hall.

The concert will start at 1:30 in the afternoon and will be presented from the wide terrace that covers the garage and workshop at the rear of the courthouse.

Each of the school band directors will direct the massed band in one or two selections. Those who will participate include F. H. Jebe, director of the Oshkosh unit; G. E. Unser, director of St. Mary Menasha band; L. E. Knorr, director of the Menasha High school band; Lester E. Mals, director of the Neenah High school band; Lawrence Steidl, director of the Oshkosh unit; and C. L. Wold, director of the Winnebago High school band.

Judge To Preside

The ceremony will open with a brief talk by J. F. Shea, chairman of the county board of supervisors. S. J. Luchsing, judge of municipal court, will serve as chairman of the day. Invocation will be given by the Rev. Leo O. Oberleiter, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church, Oshkosh. A flag raising ceremony will be in charge of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. A special 40-foot pole has been erected at the edge of the platform.

The massed bands will play the "Star Spangled Banner," and the audience will join in singing the national anthem with J. A. Brees, of the Oshkosh State Teachers college faculty leading.

Following the dedication address, Mrs. Blanche Olsen Anderson, Oshkosh, will sing "America" and the benediction will be given by the Rev. Aloys Bastian, pastor of St. Vincent's church, Oshkosh.

Reach Finals in Women's Net Meet

Mabel Jensen, Edna Swentner Will Play for Championship

Neenah—Mabel Jensen will oppose Edna Swentner for the championship in the finals of the women's singles tennis tournament Saturday afternoon at the high school courts.

Jensen advanced to the finals when she defeated Helen Graef, 6-4, 6-3. Miss Swentner moved into final play when she won from Jeannette Bylow, 6-3, 6-1, in the semis.

In the quarter-finals, Miss Jensen won from Dorothy Wiberg, 6-3, 6-1; Miss Graef defeated Betty Ginke, 7-5, 6-4; Miss Bylow won from Betty Dowling, 6-4, 2-6, 6-1; and Miss Swentner defeated Helen Peterson, 6-0, 6-1.

Ivan Williams, tennis instructor, reported that the junior boys' doubles tennis tournament will start at 9 o'clock Friday morning at the high school courts. Entries should be submitted to the instructor.

Summer Reading Contest At Library Closes Aug. 1

Neenah—Twenty boys and girls competing in the reading contest at the Neenah Public Library have read more than 130 books since the contest started. The contest ends Aug. 1. Mrs. Nelda Cooke, children's department librarian, is in charge of the contest.

Two children have finished the contest. All public parochial schools and a few rural schools are represented.

FENDERS DAMAGED

Neenah—Automobiles driven by May Timm, route 1, Neenah, and Lyle Eckrich, 639 First street, Neenah, were damaged in a collision at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon on E. Wisconsin avenue. Both cars were parked and the Timm car was backing out. The front fender on the Timm car and the rear fender on the Neenah car were damaged.

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent and advertising departments is located at 510 N. Commercial street and the telephone number is 4100. News items, copy or orders for advertising and orders for subscriptions may be left at the office or may be telephoned. This number also may be called before 7 o'clock in the evening for delivery of papers missed by carriers in Neenah or Menasha.

6,518 Swimmers at Municipal Beach in July, Guard Reports

Neenah—Despite the fact that there were only about 100 people in swimming during the first three days of July, the average for the first 19 days of the month was 343 swimmers a day, according to Ole Jorgensen, municipal swimming beach supervisor.

There have been 6,518 persons in swimming so far this month, Jorgensen reported, while Monday, July 11, there were 725, the highest number for one day. Tuesday there were 477 recorded while on Monday there were 657 in swimming.

Audit Shows Cash Balance on City Books of $101,000

All Menasha Funds Except General Have Balances As of June 30

Menasha—A cash balance of $101,745.70 for the city of Menasha as of June 30 is reported in the annual audit of the city's books which has been completed by W. H. Nelson, certified public accountant. All funds show balances with the exception of the general fund which is overdrawn by $21,772.73.

The other balances in the city's treasury show water and light commission, $39,614.19; board of education, $34,654.23; high school building fund, $1,489.06; board of industrial education, $4,469.65; library board, $6,896.43; firemen's pension fund, $533.21; cemetery perpetual care fund, $3,576.61; park and recreation board, $2,543.46; bond and coupon account, $527.73; policeman's pension fund, $1,247.33; water and light depreciation fund, $2,975.70.

Estimated receipts from July 1 to Dec. 31, 1938 are $114,221.79, according to the audit. Of that amount $74,482.72 will be payments on now unpaid real estate taxes while $39,739.07 will be for other taxes and sources of revenue. However, the general fund is already overdrawn $21,772.73 and estimated expenditures to the close of the year are $170,418.04, a total of $192,221.79, leaving an estimated overdraw of approximately $78,000.

Will Exceed Estimates

At the end of 1937 the overdraw was $76,831.75. Revenues during 1938 will be about $106,061.67 over the original budget estimates, according to Mr. Nelson, but expenditures are also expected to run about the same amount over the budget. Expenditures during the calendar year of 1937 were $10,011.14 over the 1937 budget.

The city is bonded within $84,644.20 of the limit of its bonded indebtedness, according to the report, based on the 1937 assessed valuation of $12,582,884. A city may borrow as high as 5 per cent of its assessed valuation in this instance, $629,144.20. In 1937 the city had a bonded indebtedness of $565,530 leaving an unused margin of $63,614.20. The bonded indebtedness has been reduced to $544,500 during 1938.

Included in the bonded indebtedness is $275,000 of 24 per cent bonds for Menasha's share of the Twin City sewage disposal plant. The auditor's report indicates that these bonds may be converted so that they need not be included in the city's bonded limit. If they are converted they will reduce the bonded debt to $249,500 and will leave a bonding capacity of $379,644.20.

Schedule 6 Outings For Riverside Park

Neenah—Reservations for six picnics to be held at Riverside park have been made with William G. Steiner, member of the board of park commissioners who is in charge of the park, and Frank Hardt, caretaker.

Two outings will be held at the park Sunday. The Hickory Grove Cheesemakers association will stage a picnic and a family reunion also will be held there. Sunday, July 31, the Immanuel Lutheran church congregation picnic will be held at the park, and on Sunday, Aug. 14, St. Margaret Mary church will hold its outing there. On the same day, the B'nai B'rith society will hold a picnic.

Rotarians Told About Medical Association

Menasha—Dr. A. E. Rector, Appleton, president-elect of the state medical association, discussed aims, objects and accomplishments of the state association, as well as the American Medical association, at the meeting of the Menasha Rotary club at Hotel Menasha Wednesday noon. The doctor has appeared before Twin City clubs previously and has described the accomplishments of the association and has taken a stand against socialized medicine.

50 Boats to Sail in Race to Garlic Island

Neenah—A fleet of more than 50 Neenah Nodaway Yacht club sailboats are scheduled to compete in a feature race Sunday to Garlic Island. The island is halfway between Neenah and Oshkosh.

A special trophy will be awarded the winning boat in each of the six classes. The fleet will leave here in the morning, have a picnic lunch at noon at the island and return. The tenth race of the championship series will be sailed Saturday afternoon as scheduled.

Menasha Personals

Menasha—Mrs. John Orth, Mrs. Jake Liebl, Mrs. Earl Maue and Miss Hattie Kennedy visited at Waupaca Wednesday. Joe Boehm of Shawano was in Menasha yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hornbrook, Milwaukee, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Masters at Hotel Menasha.

100 Business Men Attend Gathering To Map Sales Plan

Meet at Armory to Prepare For Parade, Program This Afternoon

Menasha—Nearly 100 Twin City business men attended the pre-crusade meeting at S. A. Cook armory, which was a preliminary to the "sales man jobs" parade and program of speeches which will get under way at 3:30 today in both cities and will conclude with the program of speeches at the Menasha city park.

At the meeting Wednesday evening, H. C. Christoph, chairman of the volunteer committee, explained the general set-up of the plan. Norton J. Williams declared that the movement would be worthwhile if the merchants cooperated in it. He had just returned from a trip through Illinois and many of the large cities there are enlisting in the campaign, so "the Twin Cities are merely keeping abreast of the times, although they may be leading the state of Wisconsin."

Mr. Williams commented that there was no national organization back of the "sales man jobs" movement which is spreading through the nation. "The government didn't need to organize another alphabet or spend a billion dollars in the move."

The possibility of seeing the people of Neenah and Menasha marching down the street together, side by side and not one ahead of the other, will come true this afternoon. Williams has always considered the two cities as one community. Williams stated, because what is good for one is good for the other.

Money in the Country

Williams explained that there is money in the country as indicated by the size of savings deposits in the banks. The theory of the crusade is that extra sales effort will result in sales which will in turn remove goods from the retailers' shelves, from the warehouses and from the stocks piled up by the manufacturers. When stocks are diminished, the manufacturer will start production and hire more men, thereby creating more jobs and more buying power. He pointed out that financial reports show a pleasant gain for the second quarter of the year.

"Too much attention is paid to the 25 million on relief," Mr. Williams declared. "There are 100 million who are not on relief. America still has buying power."

Otto Lieber explained that the campaign needed to be followed through in each particular store with extra sales effort in order to be successful. Everyone from salesman to truckdriver will be expected to make some effort at doing a selling job.

Other speakers at the meeting included Max Schalk, Harold Landgraf, E. F. Saecker, George Sande, and C. A. Loeschner.

Menasha Society

Menasha—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gale, Oakland, Calif., who have been visiting relatives and friends here, were guests of honor at a farewell picnic party Wednesday evening when Mrs. Henry Arnett and Mrs. Earl Cottrell entertained.

The party was formally given by Miss Dorothy Hansen, 316 Abbey avenue. Relatives, friends and neighbors gathered at the park for the picnic supper after which the group went to the home of Mrs. Arnett, 316 Abbey avenue, where Mr. Gale showed colored movies taken in Menasha and other cities. The Gales left this morning for the west coast.

Plans for an outing at the Sindahl cottage Wednesday evening, Aug. 10, and for a pilgrimage to the Odd Fellows home at Green Bay Aug. 21, in conjunction with the Betty Rebekahs, were discussed at the Menasha Odd Fellows Wednesday evening in the I.O.O.F. hall. The first degree was conferred on a candidate during the meeting last evening. Some discussion and plans for attendance for the state-wide pilgrimage to the Green Bay home Sunday, Aug. 7, also featured the business meeting. A social hour followed.

Mrs. Louis Kolasinski and Mrs. Joseph Kolasinski entertained Wednesday evening at a surprise birthday anniversary party in honor of Mrs. Frank Holowinski at the Holowinski home on Third street. Seven tables of cards were in play during the evening with prizes awarded Mrs. E. Jakowski, Mrs. R. Jakowski, Miss Eleanor Holowinski, Mrs. Verna Sobiech, Mrs. Gertrude Krysiak, Mrs. Louise Nakofski. The guessing game prizes were given to Mrs. Alice Reiland, Mrs. Irene Holowinski, Mrs. Alice Holowinski and Mrs. Regina Jakowski. Mrs. Krysiak won the guest prize. The guest of honor was presented with a gift.

Picnics in Menasha park are being planned by two Menasha women's organizations. The Menasha Lady Eagles will hold the annual picnic Thursday, July 28, and the Germania Benevolent society auxiliary is planning its picnic for Aug. 4. Mrs. Elda Wolfram is chairman of the Germania auxiliary outing.

Mrs. Joseph Spang and Mrs. Lawrence Stien were chairmen for the St. Mary's Catholic parish card party Tuesday afternoon and evening. Prizes in schafkopf in the afternoon went to Mrs. John Laux, Mrs. Frank Lickert and Mrs. A. Bierling; in bridge to Mrs. John Laux and Mrs. George Stille and in rummy to A. Dubanski and in whist to Mrs. John Mayefski. Mrs. Henry Vandeyacht won the guest prize. During the evening, prizes in schafkopf were awarded to Mrs. J. Schneider, Mrs. H. Schwalbach, Mrs. H. Evans, Mrs. Louis St. Peter, Mrs. P. Burghardt, Mrs. John Orth, Mrs. Della Schanke and Mrs. John Eckrich. W. Foth, W. Martell, won skat prizes, Miss Gustie Schubert and Miss G. Zelinski won rummy prizes, Delores Dorow, Ann Dorow

Wedding Plans Dominate Twin City Social Activity

Neenah—June, the traditional bridal month, is past but the wedding plans continue to dominate social activity in Neenah and Menasha, although wedding dates are set for early fall.

Mrs. Arthur W. Redlin, 216 Elm street, is planning to entertain at a pre-nuptial party for her daughter, Miss Mildred, Thursday evening of next week. Miss Redlin is to be married Aug. 20 to George Larson, Neenah. Mrs. Stanley Larson entertained for Miss Redlin last week.

Miss Florence Hauser, High street, will be guest of honor at a party the latter part of next week when friends begin a series of showers for her. Miss Hauser will be married Sept. 3 to A. C. Anderson, Hamilton, Ontario. The formal engagement was announced at a luncheon recently.

Parties are being planned also for Miss Mildred Louise Herman by friends and relatives. Miss Herman, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Viller Herman, Paris street, Menasha, will be married Aug. 27 to Gordon D. Hansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hansen, 631 Higgins avenue.

Parties have been held and others are to be held for Miss La Vella Frayer, 307 1/2 N. Commercial street, who has chosen Aug. 5 as the date for her marriage to Willard C. Eaton, 87 Fox street, Menasha.

Of interest to Neenah and Menasha friends is the approaching marriage of Miss Grace Hammes, 2930 N. Thirty-eighth street, Milwaukee, former instructor at Winnebago Day school. Miss Hammes is to be married Aug. 30. Parties are being planned for her by Milwaukee friends following her return from a summer camp at which she is counselor.

Twin City Deaths

CLARENCE JONES
Menasha—Clarence Jones, 36, Omro, died at Theda Clark hospital Wednesday night after an illness of eight months. Mr. Jones formerly was employed at the George Banta Lumbering company and made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bailor, 387 N. Myrtle street. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and of the Presbyterian church at Omro.

Survivors are his mother, Mrs. Edward R. Jones of Omro; and five sisters, Mrs. D. C. McWhirter, Yorkville, Ill.; Mrs. Merritt Clinton and Mrs. Charles Bailor of Menasha; Mrs. Frank Wilson of Appleton; and Mrs. Frederick Gensch of Waupaca.

Private funeral services will be held at the home in Omro at 1:30 Saturday afternoon and will be followed by Masonic services at the Omro Presbyterian church. Burial will be in the Berlin cemetery.

VAN DYKE FUNERAL

Menasha—Funeral services for Lois Mae VanDyke, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August VanDyke who died Tuesday evening at a Madison hospital, will be held at 8:30 Friday morning at the home, 608 Second street, and at 9 o'clock at St. Mary Catholic church. The Rev. Msgr. John Hummel will conduct the services. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

Menasha Band to Play For Soldiers Aug. 28

Menasha—The Menasha High school band will play a concert for the soldiers at the high school at Waupaca on Sunday, August 28. The band originally was scheduled to play a concert there this Sunday but arrangements were revised. Although the band will be on its vacation, members voted to play the concert. L. E. Kraft, band director, will return from his vacation to direct the band. Transportation for the trip will be furnished by the American Legion post.

Nazi Germany Refugee To Address Kiwanians

Neenah—A refugee from Nazi Germany, Dr. Ludwig Freund, professor of sociology and economics at Ripon college is scheduled to talk on Germany at the noon meeting of the Neenah Kiwanis club Wednesday, Aug. 3. Dr. Freund lived in Germany until 1934 when he came to America because his and Hitler's policies didn't correspond.

An open forum is the scheduled entertainment for the noon meeting of the club Wednesday, July 27. No speaker is scheduled.

Nadolney to Compete In Chicago Open Meet

Neenah—Joe Nadolney, pro at the Ridgeway Golf club, reported today that he will compete in the Chicago open golf tournament at the Olympian field course this weekend.

EAGLES TO MEET

Neenah—The Neenah aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will hold its regular meeting at 8 o'clock tonight. The meeting will be held in the club rooms instead of the hall for the hall is being renovated.

and Mrs. F. Ashenbrenner won whist prizes and Mrs. A. Ganzyk, Mrs. P. Bach and Miss Clara Patzel won prizes in bridge.

Catholic Women's Benevolent society of St. Mary's Catholic church will meet at 7:30 Friday evening in the school hall. Seventy-five members of the St. Mary's Band Mothers attended the covered dish party at St. Mary's school hall Wednesday evening. The party was featured by the first appearance of the St. Mary's High school alumni band under the direction of G. W. Unser. Cards provided entertainment during the evening with honors in schafkopf going to Mary Wiesgieber, Mrs. Carl Schwartzbauer, in bridge, to Mrs. Theodore Suess, in whist to Mrs. Ed Weber and in rummy to Mrs. Clem Ciske. Mrs. Marie Hahn was chairman of the committee in charge of the party.

Softball Pitcher Hurls No-Hit Game But His Team Loses

Neenah—Although Dan Schmidt hurled a no-hit game in the City Softball league last night, the Merchants were defeated, 1 to 0, by the Marten's Creamery at the Green.

With two men out in the last inning, Schmidt walked the third man up, and then the fourth batter hoisted out a fly into the center garden and the center fielder dropped the ball, a run scoring on the error. Roger Kettering, hurling for the Martens, allowed only three hits.

In the other league game, the Shell Oils walloped the Lakeviews, 15 to 9, at the high school diamond. The game between the Draheims and the Bergstrom Papers was postponed.

Church Officers Will Go to Camp

Presbyterian Group Will Leave Friday for On-away Vacation

Neenah—Officers of the church and Sunday school of the First Presbyterian church will leave Friday for a week vacation at Onaway island, Waupaca, while members of the senior department and intermediate department of the Sunday school return today after spending a week at the island.

Those who will make the trip are: Elders, Harry M. Brown, Owen W. Jones, Fred W. Bentzen, S. F. Shattuck, E. A. Severson, Charles H. Abel, Ambrose Owen, Hugh G. Davies, and William G. Stacker; deacons, Earl E. Thompson, Donald Severson, Theodore Xonka, George L. Sherman, Henry J. Eas, E. A. Bessex, H. M. Bishop, Robert W. Wood, and Max Radtke; trustees, N. S. Pickard, Leo O. Schubart, Edward E. Jandrey, John S. Tolversen, Lyall C. Stille, James C. Fritzen, D. K. Brown, C. J. Cannon and N. H. Bergstrom; and Sunday school cabinet members, Mrs. Charles H. Abel, Percy H. Ritten, Mrs. Anna L. Proctor, Wilbur Sparks, Mrs. W. R. Courtenay, and Mrs. Kai Schubart.

Returning today from Onaway island where they have been camping and attending the Bible school for young people of the First Presbyterian church are Helen Arpin, Jane Bishop, Ruth Cannon, Donna Danke, Kathryn Grunski, Vernon Jensen, Delores Larson, Jeanne Larson, Hazel Melton, Douglas Nelson, Anita Niles, Kathleen Owens, Marilyn Peterson, Marion Seidel, Catharine Shreve, Sally Strobel, Miriam Thomas, Marjorie Thompson, Jeanne Vandewalker and Marjorie Werner from the senior department of the Sunday school and Helen Cummins, Betty Elwers, Mary Fordyce, Ernest Johnson, Mary Alice Leffingwell, Calvin Mace, Robert Meard, Douglas Nagel, Eunice Niles, Marjorie Olson, Mary Shoman and Eileen Sorensen from the intermediate department.

Judge to Decide Fate Of Joint Bank Account

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau
Oshkosh—Disposition of a joint account held by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Snell, Neenah, in the National Manufacturers bank of Neenah will be made by Judge D. E. McDonald in Winnebago county court Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Snell died recently and left an estate of $307,501.31. Judge McDonald will decide whether half the joint account held in the Neenah bank will revert to the estate or whether it will go to Snell in its entirety. Executors are Arthur B. Gilbert, Neenah, and Snell.

ATTENDS CONCLAVE

Neenah—Harry D. Gates, manager of the Neenah-Menasha office of the Wisconsin State Employment service is attending a meeting of managers of Fox river valley employment offices at Manitowish this afternoon and evening.

WILLING TO HELP

W. E. Easterwood, Jr., of Dallas, Tex., banker and aviation enthusiast, dug down in his pocket for some ready cash after he had cabled Douglas Corrigan from Santa Monica, Calif., that he was willing to pay any fine assessed against "Non-stop" for his unauthorized flight to Dublin.

Neenah Committee To Map Final Plans For Pet, Hobby Show

Neenah—Final plans for the annual Pet and Hobby show at Riverside park will be made at a meeting of the committee in charge of the event at 7:30 Friday evening at the Frank Fadner home. A definite date for the show will be set and trophies and prizes to the winners will be selected. Other entertainment for the show also will be announced.

The show will be held the latter part of August and will formally conclude the playground season. This year's show will be open to town of Neenah children.

The committee in charge of the show is composed of James H. Kimberty, Otis Hayes, Frank Fadner, Norman Nye and Armin Gerhardt.

Hansen Terms Ghandi a Fake, Scores Work of Inexperienced Missionaries

Neenah—Scoring some missionary work in India, John Q. Hansen, Appleton, who was born and lived in India for 22 years, compared the results of high school graduates taking over the responsibilities of a major business and young missionaries just out of seminaries going among the Hindu people and trying to convert them, in a talk before the Neenah Kiwanis club Wednesday noon at the Valley Inn.

Hansen told the Kiwanians that he was born 87 miles east of Bombay and worked for railroads in the Indian metropolis.

In his address, the Appleton man declared that Mahatma Ghandi was a fake and he deplored the economic and social structures of India. He also favored British rule in the large nation.

Qualifying his remarks, Hansen told the Kiwanis that he was heartily in favor of missionary work, but he advised that the missionaries sent into pagan regions be qualified for the job.

People Uneducated

Young missionaries entering India are not acquainted with the type of people with which they have to deal and don't realize their limited education and arrested development, Hansen explained. They easily attract a large congregation and start reading passages from the Bible. The Hindu isn't able to grasp the real meaning, and thinking it's a joke, laughs at the missionary and loses confidence in him, according to the Appleton man.

Hansen also added that missionaries in India aren't able to support themselves, and he said that if they were capable men they would be able to draw revenue from their Indian congregations.

Although he contended that Ghandi had more personality than either President Roosevelt or Governor LaFollette, Hansen said he believed the Mahatma is a fake. "After receiving degrees from Oxford and Cambridge, graduating with highest honors, Ghandi went to Bombay to practice law but he had a hard time of it," Hansen related. He became involved in a few squabbles and didn't have much success and then contracted tuberculosis and ulcers of the stomach.

Made Show Of It

"Doctors ordered Ghandi to absorb sunlight and drink only goat milk, and the Hindu made a big demonstration of it. He went out into public and shed his clothes, informing the people that he was casting aside all European customs, and they swallowed it."

Women's Clubs Map Plans For Fall, Winter Activities

Neenah—Although women's clubs in Neenah and Menasha will not officially open fall and winter programs until October and November, program chairmen and their committees are not idle this summer for they are meeting for discussion and formulation of club activities.

The Neenah Delphian Club, whose program chairman is Miss Cecelia Boyce, Menasha, will have its club booklets of the year's program the latter part of August as Miss Boyce, Mrs. Leo Schubart and Mrs. F. Martin, the latter two of Neenah, have outlined the program and placed the dummy booklet in the hands of the printer.

Members of the Y. T. and F. club and the Woman's Tuesday club have already received copies of program booklets for the year 1938-39. Book reviews feature programs of the Y. T. and F. club which meets each week. Recent books of biography, travel, history and economics will be reviewed by members and two panel discussions, one on freedom of speech and one on Germany are included on the program. Four luncheons will be held during the year with the opening meeting, Nov. 2, a luncheon. Mrs. Ambrose Owen is program chairman and Mrs. A. T. Hudson is president.

First Meeting Nov. 1

The Woman's Tuesday club of Neenah whose president is Mrs. E. D. Beals, also meets each week and the opening meeting will be Nov. 1 at which time Dr. Louis C. Baker, professor of modern languages at Lawrence college, will begin his series of talks on current events. Lectures by college professors predominate the program. LaVahn Maesch, associate professor of music at Lawrence college, will present a series of lectures on music appreciation and Theodore Cloak, association professor of speech and dramatics at the Appleton college, will give a series of lectures on the history and development of the theater.

Other speakers include Clifford C. Crump, Ripon college; Frances Dorothy Bethurum, Lawrence college; Dr. Ludwig Freund, Ripon college; Mrs. Joan Mc Gillan Hoffmann, Appleton; Mrs. Edward Hammett; and Mrs. Eugene L. Mendenhall.

The Menasha Ladies Study club whose president is Mrs. George Banta, Sr., has no official program committee. Meeting hostesses, chosen on an alphabetical basis, furnish the program at each meeting. The first Monday in October will be the opening meeting of the club.

Committee Meeting

Mrs. A. J. Armstrong heads the program committee of the Menasha Economics club whose president is Mrs. Paul Kalfans. The program committee has been meeting during the summer and although no definite acceptance has been received from speakers contacted, a promising program of interest tentatively has been set up by the committee.

The newly organized Sarah Collins Doty chapter of the Neenah Delphian club will hold its first meeting of the fall and winter season early in October to discuss the aims and methods of orientation for modern times. A meeting was held July 12 at the Neenah library at which time a program, introducing the Delphian plan of orientation, was presented. Mrs. Howard Canfield is the president of the group.

The Who's New club of the Twin City Y. W. C. A., whose president is Mrs. Irving Stille, will have a program during the coming club season which Mrs. Richard Roudesh and her committee formulate. Meetings have been held to discuss plans but at present, Mrs. Roudesh is out of the city, and further plans will be outlined during August. A committee to formulate a constitution and by-laws for the growing organization is headed by Miss Lorraine Abenshien. The group met for the first time Tuesday afternoon.

Club Is Invited To Visit Gardens

Menasha Organization May Participate in Tour At Oshkosh

Menasha—Two invitations to tour gardens have been received by the Menasha Garden club according to Mrs. Ida S. Watkins, publicity secretary.

Mrs. R. V. Rogers, 393 Elm street, Menasha, has invited members to view a cactus in bloom in her garden Friday evening. The club members who wish to go are to meet at 6:45 Friday in the Elsie D. Smith library.

Miss Merle Rasmussen, member of the four committee of the Oshkosh Garden club, has sent the following invitation: "The Menasha Garden club members are invited to a tour which the Oshkosh Garden club is presenting members' gardens and homes Tuesday, July 28, beginning at 2 o'clock. In case of rain, the tour will be held Wednesday, July 27. There are four stops on the schedule including 11 residences, two at the starting place and three at each stop thereafter. Refreshments are to be served at the last home visited. There will be table arrangements and other floral decorations on terraces, porches and in the homes opened for the tour."

"Our members will be pleased to greet the Menasha members on that date. Please notify your members if you do not have a meeting before that time. Tickets which sell for 50 cents and blueprints of the route will be available at the starting place, the residence of Mrs. H. K. Kimberly, 421 Washington boulevard, Oshkosh."

Mrs. Watkins stated this morning that other interested persons, not necessarily Garden club members, also may make the tour.

Friday—Kimberly-Clark versus Local 931.

ATLAS Mill softballers started their drive on second round honors in the American league last evening with a 9 to 3 victory over the Coated Paper team. Walie Klein made his first appearance on the Atlas mound since returning from Camp Williams and allowed nine hits, fanned two, walked two and watched his mates make four errors. Bob Eggert tolled for Coated and gave eight hits, fanned six and walked one while his mates scored seven times.

Atlas scored a run in the first and another in the second. Coated evened matters in the fourth with two but Atlas came back with four and then added runs in the sixth, seventh and eighth to win handily.

In the big fifth frame, Getschow was safe at first on Crowe's error. Zapp forced Getschow at second but Muller doubled to center and Zapp stopped at third. Crowe let Getschow's grounder go through his legs and into right and Zapp and Muller counted. Getschow pitched second and counted on Schade's single to right. Schade took second on the throw to the plate and moved to third as Meyer grounded. Schade tried for home on the play and was safe when Felzer dropped the ball.

There will be no game tonight. Friday night Labor and Kimberly-Clark will meet.

Favorites Winners At Eastern Net Meet

Brookline, Mass., — (P) — Balked by three errors of rain, officials of the Longwood Bowl tennis tournament yesterday commended three winners to come in as many communities to get underway.

Two other favored players, Hal Surface, of Kansas City, and Bob by Harman, of Oakland, Calif., played indoors. Surface eliminated Langdon Gilkey, of Chicago, 6-2, 6-6, and Harman ousted Howard York (C. C.), Philadelphia, 7-5, 6-1.

THREE EX-CHAMPIONS IN THIS PICTURE
Back in the nineties Charles "Kid" McCoy was trading punches like the ones he demonstrated in N. Y. gym for, left to right, Jack Dempsey, Red Burman and Mickey Walker.

DON'T ASK WHAT WE THINK of the change in managers of the Chicago Cubs. We haven't much use for the front office of the Bruins since it dumped Joe McCarthy out on his ear a couple years back. Of course it was a favor to Joe because he went to the Yanks and a couple American league championships and world titles.

More or less veiled remarks in the last few days have indicated all wasn't well with Grimm and the Cubs. And yet the team was in the middle of a 7-game winning streak.

The first reaction we have to the change is whether a manager actually is a manager when he takes over the Cubs' reign. There seems to be considerable masterminding by the front office without consulting the manager. It also seems that a Bruin manager hasn't enough authority to make his charges get in and battle. Hornsby was reported to be too harsh in his desire to win despite the fact he was up among the leaders. And now Grimm apparently was too easy despite the fact he had his team among the leaders.

Maybe time will tell.

Did it ever occur to you that baseball terms which a few years ago were common as foul balls have been tossed into discard? How many times do you hear reference to a foul tick? Or that a base runner got "into a pickle" when he was caught too far off a base and the opposing team ran him down?

It would seem that the best ball player on the Kimberly Papermaker squad is a chap who hasn't been heralded much this season because he goes about his knitting and says little and puts on a minimum of show. We're referring to Artie Hofkins, a home town boy.

Artie broke in, after the season was fairly well along, as an outfielder. Then one night the Papermaker third sacker was booting the game away and Artie went to third base and showed like a veteran. Last night he took the mound and pitched the Papermakers to a victory over Manitowoc and garnered a couple hits, too.

And while we happen to think about it, we'd like to see Orville Bongers take a whirl at pitching some time. Anyone who can rifle a ball from short to first like he can should have speed to burn on the hill.

Notes of the Kaukauna-Seymour game: Comment to the effect that the first round title playoff between Kaukauna and Two Rivers won't bring much in the way of a gate. . . . Two Rivers doesn't bring many folks when it comes to Kaukauna. . . . Unless the bunting possibilities shake the leeborgers loose from their lake shore homes. . . . No member of the Kaukauna team has hit a homer this season. . . . Check us if we're wrong.

Al Bauer sitting behind in civies last night. . . . He injured his shoulder in the Manitowoc game but it's responding to treatments by an Appleton muscle twister. . . . And the veteran right hander hopes to be ready in another week. . . . His accident forced Weisgerber to take the mound and now the Brewers haven't a hurler for Thursday night's game at Sheboygan. . . .

Smiley Nicodem figured in a nice play in the eighth when he leaped into the air, stopped Vile's line drive and then caught the ball as it rolled down his arm. . . .

Seymour was well represented and the folks cheered every pitch Griffith delivered in the first three frames. . . . They never gave up on him, either, and when the northerners scored twice in the seventh they figured the game might be plucked out of the fire.

Reports are that Dale is going out after the second round title in the County league. Meshnick, Freilinger and Tilly, former members of the club and recently with New London in the Wolf River Valley league, will be with the Dale team when it takes the field next Sunday.

GREEN BAY—Anyone who gets an urge to go duck hunting this coming fall will have to go to the post office and buy a migratory bird hunting stamp—a "duck stamp" for short. You will then have qualified as a wild-fowler insofar as federal regulations are concerned.

But you do not have to be a duck hunter to buy one of these stamps. Stamp collectors buy a great many "duck stamps" and by so doing they not only add to their collection but contribute money to wildlife conservation.

There have been four duck stamps prior to the present stamp issued July 1st. "Ding" Darling did the first one—a blue stamp showing mallards drifting into a windy marsh. The next, in a rose color, showed ducks backs winging their way over a watery wilderness, then came a green stamp—brown and black with three Canada geese in flight against a cloudy sky. Last year's stamp was green: blue bills flying over a windy reach of marsh and water.

This year's stamp—but just wait until you see it.

Up until July 1st there had been two and one-half million of the four issues of stamps sold. That means $2,500,000. Ninety percent of this money goes to buy, develop and maintain waterfowl refuges, the other ten percent pays for printing and distributing the stamps and also help out with the law enforcement work.

The ninety percent means $2,250,000 million dollars for actual waterfowl refuges. This money has been of special benefit because it was used in conjunction with other federal emergency funds for retiring sub-marginal lands. The federal emergency funds were used to buy the lands for refuges but only a small part was available for development work. The CCC and WPA were on hand with men power, so there was left one great need—money for materials and equipment. Here was where your "duck stamp" dollars came to the rescue.

It is a fact that of all the migratory waterfowl refuge areas established and developed during the last four years "duck stamps" paid for only one-tenth, but figuratively speaking they bought the gas that makes the car run, the yeast that makes the bread rise.

So when you buy your duck stamp this fall you can feel satisfied that you have been getting your money's worth.

Today a Year Ago Rogers Hornsby, under contract until 1939, was dropped as manager of St. Louis Browns and succeeded by Jim Bottomley.

Three Years Ago—Harry Cooper, with record 271, won $5,000 St. Paul open.

Five Years Ago—Bunny Austin beat Ellsworth Vines and Fred Perry defeated Wilmer Allison in inter-zone Davis cup finals.

Washington—Coach Ray Flaherty of the world's champion Washington Redskins, has scheduled two practice games, one an intra-squad affair Aug. 21 and another against the strongest available opposition.

Manager Wally Murphy of the Becher Taverns, Appleton, started the rally that spelled defeat for Neenah Sunday. He singled and worried Menning into hitting Mueller to put two men on the bench. Then the Pope brothers came through with hits to drive in two runs.

George Kosloski again won his own ball game at Green Bay when he hoisted one out of the park with a mate on. The blow came in the seventh. He struck out 17 batters, which accounted for more than half of the 32 men who faced him.

Dago Schuler filled in at third base for Little Chute and turned in a great game. He will take the mound for the Holmlanders a week from Sunday against Kaukauna when the Brews invade the Chute's park. The game will feature brother and brother for Eddie Schuler is the Kaua hurler. The game will be a booster contest for the Chute team.

Grand Chute broke into the win column last Sunday with Big Bill Nofke on the mound. He has twirled several top games until the final frame when he seems to weaken, probably because he hasn't been worked regularly enough.

Several great battles are on tap for Sunday. Green Bay invades Appleton with one of the teams destined to be ousted from third place tie. Neenah Merchants invade Kaukauna. Oshkosh takes the road to Grand Chute while Menasha.

Gene Kloes allowed one hit and fanned eleven batters but issued seven walks and the Foresters had to stage a real battle to take a 7 to 6 decision from the Eagles in Fraternal league play at Wilson school diamond last night. Kloes was opposed by Van Ryzin who allowed 11 hits, fanned 11 and walked 1.

The Foresters opened the ball game with three runs after the Eagles had counted one. In the second the Eagles got another and in the third went ahead, 4-2, with two markers. The team retained its lead until the sixth when the Foresters evened matters at 6-6.

The winning run came in the last of the ninth. With Schwab on base, Ed Stoegbauer pounded out a double and the game was over.

Rammer, Haberman and Toonen did the heavy stick work for the winners with the former getting a triple and single, Haberman two for three and Toonen two for four.

MANAGER BILL HANDLER was on the spot Sunday afternoon at Neenah when, with the bases loaded, he struck out. Fanning is tough enough but when you're the manager it's that much worse.

Umpire Novakofski again is being acclaimed the outstanding arbiter in the Fox River Valley league. Last week he chased the boys through the Oshkosh-Appleton game in 1 hour and 38 minutes which leaves no time for arguing.

Appleton Becher Tavern squad is determined to make things hot for the would-be loop leaders. After losing to Little Chute the Taverns knocked off Oshkosh and last Sunday added Neenah to the string. The College city crew has a chance at second round honors.

Little Chute lost a tough game to Grand Chute with a couple regulars pulling stakes. Lucasen was on the bench with Kimberly at Seymour and Hammen, regular third sacker, was in the dog house. Koss and Weyers, a couple rookies, found the going tough in the pinches.

Radelet of the Thomas Drugs, Green Bay, lost a hard game to Menasha allowing just two hits while the Bays were combing Kosloski, Falcon hurler, for six. Errors paved the way for the Falcon win. There were six miscues and the Falcons scored four runs without a hit in the first two frames.

Kaukauna is remaining right on the heels of the one, leaders thanks to Eddie Schuler's hurler. Schuler got a lot of help last Sunday against Oshkosh when Ray Dierdick, Kaw first sacker, poked three hits and got a walk in four chances.

New London — The Plywoods knocked the Mystery Boys down for their second defeat of the second half when they staged a 9-run rally in the last two innings to win 12 to 10 last evening.

The boys led 9 to 3 at the sixth inning when the Plywoods uncorked six hits for six runs. Sam Huzzar pitched hitting for Elroy Stern, knocked Stern out with the bases loaded. After the next two singled, Leon Polaski cleaned up the socks with a double. In the seventh they hit four more for three runs while Carl Ebert held the boys to two hits and one run.

The youngsters had a big inning in the fourth when they tallied five times on four hits, three errors and a walk. Evan Stern cleared the bases with a homer for the second time in two games.

Other heavy Plywood hitters who crossed the rubber were McDermott with a double in the first and Mulhaney with a triple in the fourth for two runs.

Friday evening the K. C.'s will make their first start in the second half with Bordens for the opposition.

6 Boys Pass Beginner Tests at Hatten Pool

New London — Six boys in the beginners' swim classes at Hatten Park pool passed their official swimmers' test this week and received their Red Cross swimmers' button, according to R. M. Shortell, pool director. The boys may continue in advanced classes.

Those passed were: William Brown, James Budoh, Gerald Schoenrock, Roland Spoeh, Robin Lyons and Dale Reese.

New London Office

News and circulation departments of the Appleton Post-Crescent are represented in New London by Alvin J. Brault, 103 E. Cook street. News items and orders for subscriptions may be left at that address or may be telephoned by calling 18. Papers missed by carriers will be delivered if complaint is made before 7 p. m.

Elaborate Parade Will be Staged With Historic Show

New London — A parade of beauty and interest which New London hasn't seen for many a year is promised here in conjunction with the appearance of the Northwest Territory pageant Friday afternoon and evening. The parade is scheduled for 3:30 Friday afternoon. Over half a hundred pieces will be in the parade, exclusive of the caravan of 36 young men and their horses, oxen and covered wagons which make up the commemorative expedition.

Eighteen New London firms, industries, business houses and groups will provide a historical picture of industrial progress in New London. Seven surrounding villages have promised to send a historical float depicting some incident in its development, and there will be five bands to brighten the moving column.

The city, its officers and departments, patriotic organizations and others will add their bit to the street show.

Floral Float

One of the most elaborate floats in the parade will be that representing the city of New London, according to the Rev. F. S. Dayton who directed its design and construction. It will be a floral float, smothered with white and yellow daisies, hollyhocks and hydrangeas. Its title on one side will be "New London, Queen City of the Wolf" and on the other side the greeting, "New London Welcomes You."

Carrying out the regal theme will be a dark-haired queen and her pages aboard the float. Miss Marcella Brault has consented to be the queen and little Yvonne Johnson and Ramona Webb will be the pages. The pioneer spirit will be represented by Miss Jean Ullrich seated at an old-fashioned spinning wheel and clothed in a genuine silk dress handed down from 1788.

Loading the parade will be the colors by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Learnman-Schaller post and the American Legion Morris-Spencer post. The order of march will remain tentative until the last but in the vanguard will be the New London High school band, cars of city officials, and local saddle horsemen escorting the official city float.

Fire Equipment

The fire department will display its equipment as a demonstration of progress from the days of the old horse-drawn steamer to the present. The American Legion will have its auto-locomotive on parade. William J. Sader's 1910 Buick will make its first appearance on the streets in many years.

A general idea of what the industries will offer is indicated by the preparation of the Borden Milk Products company of half a dozen vehicles, from push cart to latest semi-trailer tank trucks, to illustrate the progress made in milk hauling. Other industries and firms are planning similar shows of multiple pieces.

Villages promising to send a float to the New London parade are Clintonville, which will be represented by the F.W.D. corporation, Wausau, Manawa, Weyauwega, Fremont, Hortonville and Bear Creek. Outside bands to appear are Clintonville, Weyauwega, Marion and Manawa.

Parade at 3:30

The Northwest pageant is expected to arrive at the city limits early in the afternoon and the parade will start at 3:30.

Complete Village Garage Addition

Structure to House Tool Room and Kimberly Highway Equipment

Kimberly — The new addition to the village hall garage is now complete with the exception of the door which was purchased from the Home Supply company, Kimberly, and which will be hung soon.

The structure is about 40 by 40 feet and is built of brick to match the main building. It will house all village equipment, such as trucks, snowplow, village grader and cement mixer. A tool room also was erected in the new addition.

In the large basement street signs, posts, and other painting will be done. The work of erecting the addition was a local project with all unemployed men, John Van Elsen supervised the work.

David Porter, who is in charge of the club swimming pool, reported during the recent hot weather more than 250 children bathed each day, in addition to the hundred of adults who also used the pool to seek relief from the heat.

Club members have the privilege of using the pool without charge while non-members must pay a small fee. Each Saturday evening the pool is drained and washed out and is refilled by the next morning. The wading pool which is a busy spot for the smaller children is drained each evening.

Members of the Community band will meet at the village hall 1:15 Sunday afternoon and will leave at 1:30 for the ball park, where they will furnish music for the oldtimers games which is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock. Flag raising ceremonies in which the band will take part will precede the game. All the band members now have uniforms as ten or more suits have arrived.

Complete Village Garage Addition

Structure to House Tool Room and Kimberly Highway Equipment

Kimberly — The new addition to the village hall garage is now complete with the exception of the door which was purchased from the Home Supply company, Kimberly, and which will be hung soon.

The structure is about 40 by 40 feet and is built of brick to match the main building. It will house all village equipment, such as trucks, snowplow, village grader and cement mixer. A tool room also was erected in the new addition.

In the large basement street signs, posts, and other painting will be done. The work of erecting the addition was a local project with all unemployed men, John Van Elsen supervised the work.

David Porter, who is in charge of the club swimming pool, reported during the recent hot weather more than 250 children bathed each day, in addition to the hundred of adults who also used the pool to seek relief from the heat.

Club members have the privilege of using the pool without charge while non-members must pay a small fee. Each Saturday evening the pool is drained and washed out and is refilled by the next morning. The wading pool which is a busy spot for the smaller children is drained each evening.

Members of the Community band will meet at the village hall 1:15 Sunday afternoon and will leave at 1:30 for the ball park, where they will furnish music for the oldtimers games which is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock. Flag raising ceremonies in which the band will take part will precede the game. All the band members now have uniforms as ten or more suits have arrived.

Captain Nancy to Talk
At Picnic in Oneida
Oneida—The annual picnic to raise funds to maintain the Catholic school at Oneida will be held Sunday with the Rev. A. A. Vissers, pastor of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches in charge. Construction of the school was started in 1910 under the direction of Father Vissers and completed within a few years.
Captain S. N. Dancy, editor of the magazine, "Citizen," will be the principal speaker. Robert K. Henry, coalition candidate for governor, also will speak at the picnic which will include a chicken dinner and an amateur show.

Mission Festival to be Held at Fremont Church
Fremont—The annual mission festival of St. Paul's Lutheran church will be celebrated Sunday at the church with two services. German services will be conducted at 10 o'clock in the morning by the Rev. E. A. Schmidt, and English services at 2:30 will be delivered by the Rev. Max Hensel, Weyauwega. A chicken dinner will be served at noon by the women of the congregation.

HOLLYWOOD LIGHTS CAMERA ACTION HAPPENINGS

BY ROBBIN COONS

New York — Press parties for the famous in New York seem to be divided into two types: the garden variety and the ultra-ultra. This classification is decided not by the setting nor by the refreshments—east or west, it's caviar and firewater—but by who attends. For the garden variety the second-string critics represent their seniors. For the ultra-ultra the first-stringers take the field.

But what I had a mind to report was not parties but the New York triumph of Walt, the diffident Disney.

Walt came east to pick up a couple of sheepskins at Harvard and Yale and on his way back west he ran slap-bang into one of the most u-u of press parties.

He was, moreover, the guest of honor. Walt has been guest of honor or times enough before, but never by his own design.

This time it wasn't Walt's idea either. It was W. G. Van Schmus's. Mr. Van Schmus is chief high mogul of the Music Hall, and he wanted to honor the greatest man in pictures today.

Disney is one of the best talkers, when he gets under way, that I've ever met.

Walt's Favorite Dwarf

About the most shocking admission he made, under the barrage of questioning, was that Grumpy was his favorite dwarf. To this Dopey fan, such honors for Grumpy amounted to high treason — but then you have to put up with Disney's ideas some times. Shirley Temple's papa has a blind side where Shirley's concerned, too.

"Am I going to frame those diplomats? You bet I am," said Disney. "I want my youngsters to point with pride at a college daddy. No, I never went to college. It was funny, but some of those kids who got sheepskins with me had worked six years for 'em. I got by more easily than most, didn't I?"

Meanwhile, as Walt Disney was being the perfect guest of honor in the reception hall, they were showing some of his new fantasies in a nearby projection room. They also showed a newsreel clip of his "graduation."

Watch for that one. You'll see the real Walt Disney. He's all smoothed in dignity of cap and gown. He's adjusting his academic cape, and the tassel gets in his eye.

With a Mickey Mousish antic, he blows it back in place.

That's it. Walt Disney is Mickey Mouse.

Police Check Bicycles

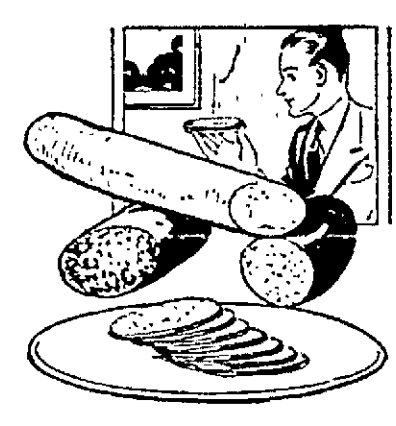

Wednesday Afternoons

Chief of Police George T. Prim advised bicyclists today that police check cycles each Wednesday if they are seeking licenses. Bikes may be brought in between 4 and 6 o'clock each Wednesday afternoon. Each machine must be checked and pass the inspection satisfactorily before a registration card for a license is issued.

LIPSTICK STAINS

If you have lipstick stains on white linens, soak them out with vinegar, full strength. If the stain is in colored material, use half vinegar and half cold water.

Love on the Range

THE STORY SO FAR
Trying to leave his reputation for gun-play behind him, "Blar" Ankrom becomes enmeshed in trouble again when he rescues Lee Trone from a band of thugs. The Trones' ranch, the Rafter T, is in difficulties, and Ankrom accepts a job there under the name of Abe Streeter. Lee tells his father Ankrom knows friends of theirs, Colonel and Betty Struthers. Then the Struthers come for a visit.

Chapter Eight: Masquerade

While Lee Trone went off to meet friends and to take them to lunch, "Blar" Ankrom took himself to a small restaurant on a side street labeled, "Greasy Spoon," and put some grub under his own belt. It was, therefore, in a fairly cheerful frame of mind, considering the prospects of trouble that lay before him, that he returned to the car and gave himself up to speculation concerning the appearance, habits and characters of those old friends of his—the Struthers.

Colonel Struthers would be a stuffed shirt, he mused—a pompous old belligerent with a horsey notion and little depth. The thought brought an amused grin to Ankrom's lips. Should the Colonel be such a character, Lee Trone would find her work cut out attempting to act around her. He drew to a stop and was an old friend of Struthers.

A man whose emotions had long been controlled by an iron will, he could not understand his feelings toward this girl who had come so precipitously into his life. That he was drawn to her he realized, and the knowledge irritated him, more than his temper. He strove to keep his mind on the matter at hand, to push their acquaintance deeper, could only mean sorrow and heart-break for one or both. This frame of mind had been one reason for his reticence during the drive this morning.

There was another cause. He had headed for this country in an effort to leave his past behind him—to live as other men had the right and freedom to live. But already the promise of further turmoil was driving black thoughts across his mind. Nowhere, it seemed, could he find the peace he craved. Where his reputation failed to follow, he found himself embroiled in new difficulties; new trouble enmeshed his steps. So he had always found it in the past.

His father, a frontier marshal until checked in mid-career by dry gulch lead, had in his time made many enemies, some of whom survived him. One of these, two years ago, had found occasion to slur the marshal's memory. With gun smoke young Ankrom had purged the insult. That incident had started Ankrom on the trail of No-Return.

In many ways it had been a lucky shot with which he had downed Storm Dream that day. The man had been a former rustler, a man whose draw was as speedy as a striking snake. He had that day got in the first shot, yet only Ankrom had lived to tell about it, for Ankrom's fire had been more accurate. Since that day a constant flood of trouble had forced the marshal's son to be down a fast track in the art of draw-and-shoot. Had he feared him, also from the treacherous trails in self defense.

Because of these things, Ankrom long ago had decided to live his life alone. The life of a gun man's wife was in his opinion not fit lot for any woman. There should be no place for sentiment in Ankrom's mind, the dictates of his heart should be discounted.

But though he had made these decisions firmly, and lived up to them as well, never before had he encountered anyone like Lee Trone. Despite the shortness of her acquaintance he could recall her features vividly; her vision was before him during all his waking hours. He could not get her out of his mind.

Voices drove in upon his consciousness and he looked up. There came Lee now, and with her a man and girl. The girl got but a glance from him; it was the man that drew his eyes.

He was well dressed this fellow was, and short, pale and handsome. Around forty-eight in years. There was laughter in his eyes, sardonic, mocking laughter, though his lips were grave and closed.

Lee said, "Colonel Struthers, this is Abe Streeter, the friend I told you of. Abe, shake hands with Colonel Struthers."

"Howdy," Ankrom nodded, and guessed the gods were chuckling. For the owner of that hand stretched out to his was the cousin of Storm Dream.

Why? Ankrom read amusement into the faint smile with which the fellow said, "Glad to meet you with you—Streeter."

"You're going to find I don't improve with age, or time—Streeter," Ankrom said it coldly and, reaching back across the seat, pulled open one of the rear doors for them. In Lee's green eyes that were fixed puzzled upon him he read wonder and speculation and knew that she had not missed entirely the significance of those low-spoken words.

"This is the Colonel's daughter, Betty," she said.

For the first time Ankrom let his glance play over the girl. She was little and pretty and golden. Her bare head in the rays of the past-noon sun was a tumbled mass of fine-spun gold. She thrust her hand toward him almost timidly, as though fearful lest his own much larger one might crush her tiny, well-manicured fingers.

"Pleased to know you, m'am," Ankrom said, and dropping her hand, turned back to stare across the wheel as the girls climbed in. The Colonel got in last. When settled, he said, "Let's go, fellow."

Ankrom pressed down on the starter. He let the clutch in gently and sent the car forward.

"By way of Peso Pinto, Abe," Lee called, and Ankrom nodded.

Once clear of the town Ankrom opened up the motor. Scant were the scraps of conversation reaching him from the back seat. But Ankrom felt no interest in their talk. His mind was busy with things which meant more to him than a general lack of water and the condition of other people's thirty steers.

The situation in which he found himself was not at all to his liking and had been complicated enough before Lee had told her father that crazy lie. But now, with the supposed Struthers proving to be a cousin of the man whose death had placed Blur Ankrom's youthful feet on the trail to gunhawk glory, immediate prospects for that hoped-for peace looked dark.

Why had Kelson Dream come here masquerading as Colonel Struthers, as an old friend of the Trones? Not because he'd guessed that here at last he would find Ankrom. No—that veiled pleasure and gleam of amusement in his glance on seeing Ankrom disappeared at once that theory. Why, then, had he come? It bothered Ankrom.

Puzzled and Apprehensive The girl who was posing as his daughter also bothered Ankrom. Who was this glowing creature introduced by Lee as Betty? Not Dream's daughter, certainly! Dream had no daughter. Was this girl the real Colonel's daughter? "But no," he thought, "she would never lend herself to such a deception."

Where then did she fit into this web of conspiracy that was spinning about the Rafters? Was she merely an accomplice of Dream—Or was she more—Dream's wife or—

Behind the wheel Ankrom's form went tense, his hands clutched the hard-rubber circle. He had seen this girl before. Some was the one who had leaned from between the red drapes of that second-story window in Peso Pinto the other night and cried, "Up here, cowboy! Quick!"

For long seconds as the road flashed past, Ankrom's mind was a whirl of wild conjecture, then as the rush of blood receded from his brain he forced himself to think more coolly. Dream, he realized, had not come here unprepared. He must have known that the real Struthers had not been seen by Trone for many years, else he would not have dared this impersonation. That he had now committed himself to the role, showed that he had every intention of bluffing it out.

Why? What was he expecting to get out of it? Ankrom knew the Dream breed pretty well both from experience and reputation. He knew that a Dream would never risk his neck if there was no money, and good money, to be forthcoming. The man, he reasoned, must be working under orders.

Where? Blur Ankrom was a puzzled and apprehensive young man as he sent the car across the miles toward Peso Pinto. And it was not for himself, just now, or for his own future that he felt apprehensive—it was for Lee Trone and the gaunt old man who rodded the Rafters.

For any possible danger this mystery might hold for himself, Blur Ankrom was not concerned. Even his object in coming to this country was momentarily thrust into the background of his mind by the nature of current events and a sudden interest and absorption in the riddle set up by them.

He did not believe that Dream would give away the Streeter masquerade. The man could not afford to—yet. Nor could he immediately afford to bring his quarrel with Ankrom into the open. The chances were that Dream would bide his time, would wait until this sinister business that was bringing him to the Rafters T was finished before calling Ankrom to account.

Was there some connection between Lee Trone's adventure in Peso Pinto and the sudden arrival of the spurious Colonel? To Ankrom it seemed likely that there was, but its nature he could not surmise. One thing only seemed certain—there was trouble ahead for Old Man Trone and all who sided with him!

Traffic Accidents Show Reduction in State During June

Crashes in Month Also Less In Outagamie County, Report Reveals

The month of June saw a noticeable reduction in both accidents and fatalities throughout the state, according to a report of the state highway commission. In June of 1937 there were 209 accidents reported and 73 deaths. For June of 1938 there were 710 accidents reported or 99 less, and 41 fatalities or 32 less.

This shows a saving for the first six months of 124 lives. Most accidents still are occurring on the open rural highway where people have that feeling of security and therefore are not quite as cautious as they should be, the commission states.

lead the type of accidents with pedestrians being hit following in second place. Nine of the forty-one persons killed were pedestrians.

Continued efforts of the safety councils to get the people safety conscious and keep them that way will keep this good record for the rest of the year, the commission says.

Post-Crescent records show that in June of this year there were 26 accidents reported and 31 persons hurt as compared to 29 reported in accidents with 23 hurt in the same month of 1937.

William Laird Reelected To School Board Office

Shiocton—The annual school meeting was held in District 5, town of Bovina, Monday evening. The years report was read and approved. Total disbursements for the 1937-38 school year were $1,037.71. Total receipts were $1,749.71, leaving a balance of $711.94. It also was voted to raise $550.

William Laird was reelected treasurer for three years. Mrs. Mary Conrad was honored by relatives and friends Sunday, the event being her seventy-sixth birthday anniversary. Those present were Dr. and Mrs. Harold Vedner and children, St. Croix, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Conrad and daughter Henriette and son Henry. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Conrad and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Springer, Black Creek; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey St. John and Miss Ethel Conrad, Big Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick and children, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Worm and children, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Jeffers and son Donald, New London; Mrs. Esther Fergat and daughter Beverly, Dale; Mrs. Clara Vedner, Appleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Jennerjahn and family, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Becker and children and Will Zschuchner, Greenville; the Rev. and Mrs. Louis Mielke, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Schoening, Mr. and Mrs. August Otto, Mr. and Mrs. Art Conrad and family, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad and daughter Gloria and son Paul, Ervin Conrad and Donald Kitchmaster, Shiocton.

Dinner and supper were served and the day spent socially. Mrs. Keith Hubbard and sons Bobby and Tommy of Eau Claire, Mich., are making an extended visit at the home of the former's father, F. O. Town.

Mrs. Julius Schoening is a patient at the Community hospital at New London.

Mrs. Gerald Krueger of Hartford is spending the week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Volentine. Mr. Krueger accompanied her here Sunday, returning home the same day.
